WIDENING OF BOULEVARD URGED TO COUNCIL

Uniform Width of 66 Feet
For San Fernando Road
One of Proposals

Important recommendations were made to the City Council at a meeting of the City Planning Commission held last night at the City Hall, with Chairman T. W. Watson presiding and all members present, the outstanding recommendation being that proceedings be instituted for the widening of San Fernando boulevard to a uniform width of sixty-six feet between curbs, with a ten-foot sidewalk on either side, except along the Southern Pacific right of way. This recommendation indorses the petition from property owners along the boulevard, which has been in the hands of the City Council since September, 1923.

To Survey Route
It was requested, in view of a petition from the Fourth Street Improvement Association, calling for action on the proposed new foothill boulevard from Pasadena to Glendale and Burbank, via Glen Oaks boulevard, Sierra avenue, Sycamore Canyon road, Monterey road and Fourth street, that City Engineer Benjamin F. Dwyer accompany members of the commission on a survey of the route.

CRISIS LOOMS IN MACDONALD RULE

Settlement of Strike Averts
Split In Labor Ranks
For Brief Period

LONDON, March 29.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald's double victory in averting a strike of railway workers and effecting a provisional settlement of the street railway and bus employees' strike, has averted only temporarily a split in the Labor party, it was believed today.

The present crisis has been ended, but other labor troubles loom up in the immediate future. A lockout of ship workers has been ordered for April 12. The coal miners have forced the Laborite premier to promise to introduce in Commons a minimum wage bill, which may be so bitterly opposed as to cause the government's downfall.

Dogs' Tug of War Not Hindered by Traffic

28.—Two toy dogs, holding a tug of war over a piece of meat, held up traffic on the busy Hartford road here, ignored efforts of police to get them out of the way and simply didn't hear the din of scores of horns. Two motorists picked the animals up and placed them on a sidewalk, where they were still tugging when the last blocked machine went by.

Expect Clark's Fate In Jury's Hands Soon

SAN DIEGO, March 29.—There was no session of court today in the trial of E. Drew Clark, charged with the murder of George Schick. When court opens Monday morning, counsel will begin argument and summing up. This is expected to consume most of the day, the case going to the jury late Monday afternoon.

Probe of Aircraft Frauds Blocked by Official, Is Claim

WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.—A startling story of how investigation into aircraft frauds was blocked by an official of the department of justice who had been appointed at the instance of attorneys of one of the companies under investigation was related to the Daugherty investigating committee today by H. L. Scaife, a former agent of the department.

An even more startling suggestion advanced by Scaife was to the effect that the failure of the American aircraft program during the war was due to the exercise of pro-German influence, operating through the Mitsui company, a Japanese banking syndicate which controlled the Standard Aircraft corporation, and which, before the war, had acted as paymasters for the German secret service.

MELLON IS NEXT ON PROBERS' LIST

Senate Tomahawkers Out to Get Secretary's Scalp
In Cabinet War

WASHINGTON, March 29.—With two scalps dangling from their belts—those of Denby and Daugherty—the senatorial tomahawkers turned their attention today to "getting" still another member of President Coolidge's cabinet—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon—and developments as sensational as those which featured the Denby and Daugherty cases were freely predicted by those who are gunning for the treasury head.

A resolution sponsored by Senator McKellar, Democrat, of Tennessee, directing the judiciary committee to investigate Mellon's fitness and eligibility to hold office, slumbered on the table in the Senate today.

Good Chance to Pass
It will be called up on Monday and debated with all the savagery that has characterized similar debates in the hectic days of the last two months.

The resolution stands a good chance of passing. The Democrats with few exceptions, are opposed to Mellon and his policies. His persistent attacks upon their tax schedules, some of which they believe to have been unjustifiable, has earned for him a fairly solid Democratic opposition.

CONTROLLER IN COURT

SACRAMENTO, March 29.—State Controller Ray L. Riley was named a defendant in an action brought in the state supreme court here today by the California reclamation board to force the transfer of $235,000 from the flood control appropriation to its emergency fund.

Glendale Will Win Them!

When we read of many homes being wrecked by a tornado, when there comes a dispatch telling of a great flood, when the wires carry a story of a huge snowslide—all occurring far from sunny Southern California—we of Glendale realize this is the ideal section of the country in which to really live. Our eastern friends are learning of our advantages and just as quickly as they can they are coming to Southern California—and to Glendale, provided we continue to press upon them the advantages of living in this city.

The Glendale Evening News has always advocated the charms of this city. Thousands of copies of this newspaper have gone eastward with the result that people have gained the desire to come here—and, having come, Glendale did the rest.

It is our duty to bring people here from every section of the United States. Other cities, by organized effort, are seeking new residents. We of Glendale must make greater plans to retain our reputation as the fastest growing city in America.

Tell eastern people about Glendale! Get them here—and Glendale will win and hold them!

GEORGE H. BENTLEY AND DR. HARRY V. BROWN ARE CHOSEN SCHOOL TRUSTEES

More Than 1500 Votes Cast in Election of Representatives; Board Meets On May 5
For Purpose of Reorganization

George H. Bentley becomes a member of the Glendale Union High School Board of Trustees, and Dr. Harry V. Brown is re-elected, as a result of yesterday's balloting. Of the total number of votes cast, Mr. Bentley received 1252, leading Dr. Brown, who came next with 968, and the defeated candidate, Alexander Mitchell, who polled 913 votes.

Mr. Bentley also led in the foothill precincts, polling 146 votes. Mr. Mitchell coming second with 141 and Dr. Brown third with 166 votes. Following is a tabulation of the balloting in the four precincts:

	Glendale	Tujunga	La-Cres-	Sunland	Total
George H. Bentley	1106	76	20	50	1252
Dr. Harry V. Brown	862	54	16	36	968
Alexander Mitchell	772	41	5	95	913

This report was made at 10:30 o'clock last night to the High School Board by F. Riley Lyons of the election board, inspector of the Glendale precinct.

The High School Board will meet and canvass the returns at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, April 7, as prescribed by law.

The board of trustees of the Glendale Union High school now comprises: H. W. Yarick, president; Dr. Harry V. Brown, clerk; Albert D. Pearce, A. W. Tower and George H. Bentley. The board will meet at noon on Saturday, May 5, at the Broadway High school, to reorganize, elect officers and set the day and hour for their regular monthly meetings.

Express Thanks
Mr. Bentley this morning requested The Glendale Evening News to express his sincere thanks to all who voted for him and worked in his behalf in the campaign.

"I certainly appreciate the effort that was put forth by all,"

FRENCH CABINET OUTLINES POLICY

Stern Attitude Maintained
Toward Germany by
New Ministry

PARIS, March 29.—Premier Poincare's new cabinet held its first formal meeting today to formulate a foreign policy. At noon the cabinet was presented to President Millerand.

Poincare's stern policy towards Germany and the program of rigid economy will continue in force. The cabinet meeting lasted from 9:30 until 11:45, when the ministers went to the Elysee palace. In addition to foreign policy they discussed the program to be presented to the Chamber of Deputies.

A preliminary cabinet gathering had been held Friday evening for "introductions."

DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN LOVE AFFAIR

Head of Business College
Slays Sweetheart, Turns
Pistol on Self

CASPER, Wyo., March 29.—Two bodies lie in the morgue this morning—one a victim of a murderer's bullet, the other a suicide. The love of a man for a maid was the cause.

Lee D. Mortimer, 24, president of the Casper Business college, shot and instantly killed Norma Ford, his sweetheart, as the two walked arm in arm down a business street late yesterday afternoon. The two, according to police information, had been sweethearts for some time. Recently they had quarreled over an old suit, but their difficulties were apparently patched up. Entering the class room, Miss Ford remarked to her girl friends that she was very happy, saying, "I've just made up with my sweetheart."

Mortimer, overhearing the remark, thought she had reference to another suitor and believing that he was about to lose her, purchased a revolver and asked her to accompany him on a walk. She consented and the two left the building together. Suddenly stopping, Mortimer, according to an eye-witness, pulled the revolver from his pocket, pressed it to the girl's head just behind her ear, and pulled the trigger. The girl fell to the sidewalk dead. Placing the gun to his right temple, Mortimer fired a second time and fell across the girl's body.

Revolutionary Chief Safe at Texas Port

MEXICO CITY, March 29.—Adolfo De La Huerta, civilian leader of the recent revolution, who was reported lost at sea in a storm, landed at Galveston, Texas, on the night of March 25, according to official advices received today by General Arnulfo Gomez, commander of the federal garrison. This confirms a previous report that De La Huerta had reached Galveston safely.

Argue at Breakfast; Divorce Suit Filed

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—William B. Allen wanted a beefsteak and potatoes for breakfast and his wife, Susan H. Allen, said a more suitable breakfast would be oatmeal mush and cream. An argument ensued and his wife slapped his face, according to a cross-complaint on file today, following Mrs. Allen's suit for divorce.

Wedding Delayed As Frantic Lover Hunts Sweetheart

Somewhere in Glendale there is a lost bride-to-be. A distracted prospective groom was searching for her here today. Alice Lemway and John L. Mason attended school together in Boone, Iowa. Mason left Boone, went to work in a Kansas City packing plant but returned often to visit. Before Alice left Iowa three years ago for Los Angeles, where she expected to live with acquaintances, they had become betrothed.

Letters passed often between the two. For more than two years Alice lived in Los Angeles. They planned to wed nearly a year ago, but Mason was seriously injured in an automobile accident and was forced to spend nearly a month in a sanitarium. That took nearly all the money he had saved up to come West and claim his bride.

Concealed Injuries
He didn't want to tell Alice how serious the injuries were because he knew she would worry and perhaps spend much-needed money to go back to Kansas City and care for him. He said today she apparently didn't understand just why he kept postponing their wedding date and he believes now she was hurt by his delay. Finally, however, he recovered and has since saved enough money to start married life in the West. Through correspondence, they planned to meet at the Southern Pacific station in Los Angeles yesterday morning. Then they were going to secure a license and visit a minister.

Mason arrived early yesterday in Los Angeles. He searched the Southern Pacific station for his betrothed. She wasn't there. He

Mannington Sails to Face Senate Inquiry

PARIS, March 29.—Howard Mannington, confidential friend and former colleague of ex-Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, whose testimony is desired by the Senate committee at Washington investigating the department of justice, sailed for New York today upon the liner Chicago.

Ask Congress Declare Flood Control Policy

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Declaration by Congress of a policy to be followed in development of the Colorado river for flood control, irrigation and electric power was urged today before the House irrigation committee by the federal power commission.

NEW PLAGUE OUTBREAK

SACRAMENTO, March 29.—Another ne w infection in Merced county was the only development reported here today in the foot and mouth disease situation. All infected stock in San Francisco will be slaughtered by Monday.

MANY FLEE IN FEAR OF GREAT WALL OF WATER; GALE WRECKS 200 HOMES

Tornado, Blizzard, Flood Hit Various Parts
Of Country; Trains Halt, Wires Down and
Property Damage Heavy, Is Report

A score dead in the west and southwest from a freak storm which struck with tornado violence and became a blizzard as it moved north, promised today to be the toll of winter's dying blow.

Ten were dead, between fifty and sixty injured and heavy property damage inflicted in Oklahoma, where the tornado first struck, late yesterday.

Four more lives were taken as it moved over Missouri, early today.

In Utah, where heavy snows started yesterday, four men were missing after a snowslide which buried fifty railroad track workers, seriously injuring forty-four of them.

PROVO, Utah, March 29.—Four men are missing and more than a score are injured, some seriously, as the result of a snowslide in Provo canyon today which buried fifty track workers of the Denver & Rio Grande western railroad.

Shortly before noon it was reported two others had been located and may be rescued alive, but this report could not be confirmed. The injured are being brought to hospitals here. The workers were employed on the Heber City branch of the railroad clearing away previous slides.

Fifty Track Walkers Buried Under Snowslide

SALT LAKE CITY, March 29.—Forty-five men were injured and five still unaccounted for, as the result of a huge snowslide in Provo canyon, about 9 o'clock this morning, which buried the fifty workers under several feet of snow and debris. The men, all track workers and laborers, employees of the Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad, had been sent up the canyon early this morning to clear the tracks of snowdrifts, following a heavy fall of snow throughout Utah the past three days.

The slide came down what is known as the Snowslide canyon, at Bridal Falls, ten miles up the canyon. Provo canyon, through which the railroad runs, is about forty miles southeast of Salt Lake and snowslides are frequent throughout the winter months.

Noise May Be Cause
Those familiar with the canyon declare it is possible the noise of a train was sufficient to break off

COOLIDGE HUNTS CABINET MEMBER

President Seeks Successor
To Fill Vacancy Left
By Daugherty

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Confronted with a score of names and beset on all sides by boosters and detractors thereof, President Coolidge swept routine aside today and engaged in a still hunt for a man to fill the second break in the cabinet he inherited nine months ago from the late President Harding.

Foremost in the ranks of aspiring candidates to succeed Harry M. Daugherty as attorney general of the United States, it was learned from White House sources, are two sons of Amherst, the president's alma mater—one from New York and one from Massachusetts.

Two Candidates
Harlan Fiske Stone, until recently dean of the law school of Columbia university, and Arthur P. Huggs, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts, are the respective candidates.

Social Event

At Morgan Home

Bridge, Mah Jongg and dancing were the diversions last night at the delightful social affair given by Miss Ann Morgan at the T. J. Morgan home at 1636 North Verdugo road, honoring Mrs. Eunice Mitchell of Spokane, Wash., and the William Griffith family of Philadelphia, Pa.

High score for the bridge games were held by Mrs. Blamford and Miss Dugan while second prizes went to Mrs. Boettner and Miller Towman.

For Mah Jongg Mrs. Sherman won first and Mr. Griffith second. Beautiful spring roses were used in artistic arrangements about the Morgan home.

Miss Morgan was assisted in receiving by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Morgan.

Late in the evening delicious refreshments were served.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Griffith and daughters, Misses Polly and Helen of Philadelphia, who have been visiting in Hollywood; Mrs. Eunice Mitchell of Spokane, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Atkins and Mrs. Georgia Wagoner of Hollywood; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sherman of Beverly Hills; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Blamford, C. J. Aze of Manhattan Beach; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lucido of Long Beach; Ellard Duane of San Pedro; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Briggs and Miss Fuller of Los Angeles; Dr. and Mrs. Donald Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. Jack Boettner, Harry Goodwin, Miller Towman and Dr. John Anderson of Glendale.

Dinner Dance

Miss Virginia Abbey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Abbey of 1233 North Central avenue, was hostess last night to a group of friends, when she entertained with a dinner dance and theatre party.

Dancing was enjoyed from 8 till 9 o'clock, when the hostess entertained her guests at the Glendale theatre.

After the theatre, a delicious dinner was served at the Abbey home. The table decorations were attractively carried out in a yellow and white color scheme, with a centerpiece of daffodils and plates of cards and other table appointments in the same theme.

Covers were laid for Misses Julia Getts, Doris Hollister, Lois Strother and Messrs. John Habbie, Douglas Shilling, and Reynolds Packard, and the hostess, Miss Virginia Abbey.

Camp Fire Girls

The Tatapochon Camp Fire Girls entertained as special guests last night members of the Yallani camp and their parents, when they presented the playlet, "The Camp Fire Girls," at the First Congregational church.

The cast included the following: Guardian of the fire, Mrs. Maude E. Watrous, Wawabause; fire-maker, Marjorie Brown, Gahowa; wood gatherers, Viola Van Pelt, Waw-wawayse; Anna Marjorie Phillips, Minnehaha; Nyla Chapman, Wamponia; Josephine Franklin, Owaissa; Rose Watrous, Aneah; Margaret Haight, Hahnah-wen; Janice Fletcher, Nyodi; Dorothy Benavare, Aecca, and Willie Hoyt, Bad, Temskwahtavah; Camp Fire girls, Grace Thompson and Pearl Loomer.

Birthday Dinner

A dinner party last night at the J. A. Goldthwaite home at 329 West California avenue was a double celebration, for it marked the birthdays of Mr. Goldthwaite and his mother, Mrs. L. I. Goldthwaite, of 415 West Harvard street.

Mrs. J. A. Goldthwaite was assisted in planning the dinner by her daughter, Barbara. A centerpiece of golden daffodils was the feature of the yellow color scheme used on the dinner table.

Places were marked for Mrs. W. H. Fortz, Mrs. L. I. Goldthwaite and daughter Miss Helen, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Goldthwaite and daughter Barbara.

Rebekah News

Mrs. Rosella Strother, district deputy president, and Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, district deputy marshal, and their staff of the Rebekah lodge went to Los Angeles last night to officially visit Fraternity lodge.

On next Wednesday night they will visit the new Rebekah lodge in Hollywood and confer the initiatory degree.

The regular meeting of Glendale's Rebekah lodge will be Tuesday night in the Odd Fellows' hall on West Broadway. Mrs. Marjorie Pease, noble grand, will preside and there will be initiation.

Red Cross Meet

Mrs. John Robert White, chairman of Glendale Red Cross, received her board members, deputy marshal, and their staff of the Rebekah lodge last night to officially visit Fraternity lodge.

On next Wednesday night they will visit the new Rebekah lodge in Hollywood and confer the initiatory degree.

The regular meeting of Glendale's Rebekah lodge will be Tuesday night in the Odd Fellows' hall on West Broadway. Mrs. Marjorie Pease, noble grand, will preside and there will be initiation.

Aid Hostesses

The regular monthly dinner served last night in the banquet hall of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, under the auspices of the Aid society, proved a most successful affair, both from a social standpoint and financially.

During the serving of the dinner a splendid musical program was furnished by Sevesewski's Glendallians. Covers were laid for over a hundred guests.

Japanese Program

A Japanese program was the feature of the regular monthly business and social meeting of the Philathea class of the Central Christian church held Thursday night at the home of Mrs. R. C. Logan, 502 Salem street.

Graceful sprays of cherry blossoms and other spring flowers were used attractively as decorations.

The program which had been arranged by the social service committee, composed of Misses Dorothy McDowell, Rose Jennings and Mabel Graham, included an interesting talk by Mrs. Fred Hagin, a returned missionary of Japan.

Mrs. Hagin has spent several years in Japan and had many interesting experiences to relate. She also illustrated her talk with many beautiful articles brought from Japan.

Preceding the program, a short business session was held with the president, Miss Ina McConnell in charge.

At a late hour Japanese wafers and tea were served by the thirty members and friends in attendance.

Hear Mrs. Gale

Glendale Daughters of the American Revolution meeting next Wednesday at the First Congregational church are to have the delight of hearing Mrs. Margaret Gale of 1222 North Cedar street talk on "Abraham Lincoln."

Mrs. Gale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter Morris, were close friends of the great war-time president and when a little girl Mrs. Gale sat upon the president's knee.

One of her many valued historic treasures is a gift President Lincoln gave to her mother, Mrs. Martha Wright Morris, for a patriotic service she performed.

The D. A. R. meeting will be at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. C. W. Houston, regent, presiding.

Church Group

The Mayflower group of Congregational church women met at the church yesterday afternoon for a social afternoon.

Mrs. H. C. Wilcox, president of the group, presided, and the hostesses were Mrs. Allen Green, Miss Ella Bates, Mrs. E. W. Hayward.

Plans were made for work for the fall bazaar. It was decided that no meeting will be held in April because of the many other church activities and club affairs.

Program For Club

Much of interest is in store for Tuesday afternoon clubwomen next Tuesday, for there will be meetings in progress from 10 o'clock in the morning until late afternoon.

The fine art department, of which Mrs. Roy A. Ballagh is curator, is to begin the day's program with a meeting at 10 o'clock. The time will be devoted to "California Artists," and the clubwomen are to start their portfolio of copies of works by California artists.

Then, at 11 o'clock, Miss Winifred Rouze, Bible department instructor, will speak in the auditorium on "Our Easter as Predicted in 1500 B. C." Mrs. C. H. Temple, curator, again extends a cordial invitation to all Glendallians to hear Miss Rouze.

At 12:30 o'clock there will be a club luncheon, with Mrs. M. M. Ford of the Florence Crittenden home; Mrs. M. W. Wellington, manager of the California hut, and Miss Hermine Schwed of the Better American Federation as the speakers.

In the afternoon, at the club meeting, Mrs. Daniel Campbell will preside.

A pre-view of the coming district convention in Glendale will be given by Myra Nye, Los Angeles newspaper woman, and Ethel Elliott Swan will give a recital of "Mister Antonio."

Halls Are Hosts

The "Hard Times" party held Friday night under the auspices of the Nimble Fingers club, auxiliary of the Daughters of Veterans, at the home of Mrs. H. W. Hall, 227 North Louise street, proved to be a most enjoyable affair and a financial success. The proceeds of the affair will be applied toward the fund for purchasing silverware for the Daughters of Veterans.

A group of high school boys furnished the music for the dancing, and tables were arranged for those desiring to play cards.

At a late hour refreshments were served.

P-T-A. Affair

Another delightful informal afternoon tea was given yesterday afternoon by the Acacia Parent-Teacher association at the home of Mrs. Holman at the corner of Boynton and Palmer streets. Mrs. Welch was assisting hostess.

Thirty women were received for the affair.

During the afternoon Alice Torrey gave the "Glow Worm" dance and Louise Torrey "Irish Wash-woman Dance." Mary Hellman gave piano solos.

Hear Whistlers

The artistry and technique of whistling were demonstrated yesterday afternoon at the Tuesday afternoon clubhouse by Miss Agnes Woodward, director of the California School of Artistic Whistling of Los Angeles, assisted by associate instructors and a group of pupils.

Mrs. Nathan Rigdon secured the program for the music department of the club for its annual open meeting. Over sixty-five women were present.

In the lecture recital Miss Woodward gave an interesting presentation of the technical side of whistling, illustrating her talk with a blackboard, on which she wrote notes used in whistling.

She was assisted by Miss Lorraine Griffin, an instructor in the school, and by Mrs. Madge Becker Quimby, former instructor.

The club women were interested in a sketch read by Miss Griffin of the Woodward school. It is the only school of the kind in the world and has branches in all parts of the United States. Miss Woodward has pupils from all parts of the world.

Yesterday the following pupils were presented: Helen White of Glendale, Genevieve Kilcoyne and Esther Campbell of Los Angeles. Miss Ella MacGlashan was accompanist.

Hostesses of the afternoon were Mesdames H. L. Baker, James Cunningham, W. P. MacMullen and Alexander Mitchell.

Mrs. Warren Roberts, curator, was in charge of a short business meeting.

On April 11 the department will have a miscellaneous program, arranged by Virginia Freeman.

Share Honors

Miss Gertrude Talmadge was hostess last night at a delightful affair at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnstone on East California avenue, complimenting Miss Margaret Nielsen, who will leave shortly for her home in Seattle, Wash.

Sharing honors with Miss Nielsen were Mr. and Mrs. John E. Beaumont of Westlake park, whose marriage was a recent event.

Those present were Miss Margaret Nielsen; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Beaumont, Miss Beulah Hoops, Miss Gertrude Talmadge, Edwin Lowry, Theon Dalley, Leroy Martin, Mrs. Amelia Talmadge, Miss Orpha Johnstone, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnstone.

Games and music were entertainment features and late in the evening refreshments were served.

Study Balloting

Mrs. Loretta Schwitters served as parliamentary yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Past Noble Grands' club of the Rebekah lodge in the Odd Fellows' hall on West Broadway.

Bertie Smith, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Formal organization was effected yesterday and constitution and by-laws adopted. Later the study of "Balloting" was taken up under the direction of Mrs. Schwitters.

At the next meeting, the second Friday in April, Mrs. Evelyn Hall will be parliamentary and the study will be on "Officers and Duties."

The club is open to all past noble grands in good standing.

EAGLE ROCK

ASK STORM DRAIN
SEWERS FOR CITY

C. of C. Official Explains
Change in Attitude Toward System

The Chamber of Commerce has officially sanctioned the movement launched by hundreds of petitioners for a system of storm drains sewers in this locality, thereby rescinding their former recommendation to the Los Angeles City Council. The York Valley Improvement association and other local bodies have been behind the movement, with T. C. Mason as one of the active workers.

Donnell G. Montgomery, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has issued the following statement, in explanation of his organization's change of heart: "July 26, 1923, the Chamber of Commerce sent a letter to the storm drain department, city engineer's office, Los Angeles, urging that no storm drains be put in Eagle Rock, until sanitary sewers were completed. This letter in no way intended to stand in opposition to storm drains for Eagle Rock in the future. The sanitary sewers are now well on their way, and we are convinced that storm drains would not interfere with the procedure on this work, and consequently we feel that the purpose of the above letter has been accomplished.

"The Chamber does not wish to give the impression that they are opposing storm drains or any other reasonable request of the people of the valley and we are ready to do all in our power to assist in obtaining storm drains sufficient to avoid a repetition of the hardships of the last storm. The board instructed the sending of a letter to the storm drain department embodying the following motion, to wit: that we supplement the letter of July 26, 1923, to the engineering department of Los Angeles with another letter urging them to put in storm drains as far north as Yosemite."

"Sis Liz" Gets Home
The notorious and harmless "Sis Liz," sixty-year-old widow, is now lodged at the Pique home at Echo street and Hays avenue, following her arrest on an Eagle Rock bench, at midnight, in the arms of Morpheus—which scholars know is just another way of saying she was fast asleep.

"Liz" was inclined to be peevish when Officers McBride and Hairell, of the local constabulary, roused her gently but firmly from her slumbers but she finally yielded to logic and accompanied them to headquarters, where her frayed little satchel was opened and found to contain crusts of bread and morsels of food picked up from tables in Eagle Rock park, where joyous picnickers had left them with never a thought that a poor broken woman could be in need of such crumbs to sustain in her hankers the spark of life. The officers consulted gravely, and with curious feelings around the heart, as they thought of their own mothers and contrasted them with this wretched creature, who may be "mother" herself to a "boy" somewhere.

The result is that "Sis Liz" is now being well taken care of at the Pique home, in exchange for a few light tasks that are as nothing compare with the struggle to sustain life that was hers as a vagabond.

It is said that she has a sister living in Boyle Heights, though who this is she would not say, refusing as well to reveal her own name.

Railroad Figures for Convention Announced

A rate of a fare and a half has been granted on all railroads of the United States for delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Washington, D. C., June 23-26. To take care of western passenger associations have agreed to advance the date of opening of the summer tourist rates from June 1 to June 22.

Under the plan adopted this year for reaching the maximum in general comfort in regard to hotel accommodations, all hotel reservations for the convention must be handled through the Washington Real Estate board. Reservations and subsequent changes must be made through the secretaries of each local board. There will be no block reservations.

Each state will be allocated to its own hotel headquarters. In order to utilize fully first-class hotels within a very short radius from the convention headquarters, it is suggested that delegates should arrange in advance to double up two in a room as far as that can possibly be done.

Unity Chapter to Be Guests of Templars

Knights of Glendale Commandery, No. 53, Knights Templar, are to be hosts Monday night to Unity Chapter, No. 116, of which Thomas P. Carter is high priest. It will be the first time the Commandery has entertained Unity Chapter at dinner for a long time, and both hosts and guests are keenly anticipating the event. After a 6:30 o'clock dinner the Unity Chapter will confer the Royal Arch degree. Sir Knights are to attend in fatigue uniforms.

COMMENT
That's All

Need of High Moral Code
Thank You, Mr. Espee
Think of Building Now
Help Make Glendale Great

By Gil A. Cowan

Little comment need be made on the passing to private life of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. His resignation was expected, in view of the rather complicated political situation. His criticism of President Coolidge yielding to popular clamor is unimpaired, we believe.

But now that Denby and Daugherty are deposited there is no reason for further attacks on the cabinet. There may be others unfitted, but there is no need to destroy the power of an administration to properly function. And that is exactly what the political adversaries of President Coolidge would like to see done.

With Daugherty out of office the campaign of slander should cease and congress get down to business. The most discreditable testimony has been adduced and more of it will be nauseating. Of course, there are those who would like to see ALL those who might possibly be suspected given the third degree and pilloried, but one can hardly believe it will be a long, long time before such a recurrence of circumstances will involve high officials of the government.

A great lesson has been wrought for all aspirants to public office. It might be good to remind them of the words found in William Cullen Bryant's "Thanatopsis," which read: "So live that when they summons comes—"

Maintaining a high moral code in both private and public life is essential to success. In Glendale yesterday enthusiastic audiences of young people in the high schools heard Dr. Charles E. Barker speak.

To a large extent he dealt with social problems, but he did leave in the minds of his hearers their duty toward posterity. His advice to young people that they prepare for life work, that they resort to prayer when confronted by problems and that they devote fifteen minutes each day to the upbuilding of their physical bodies—that message should be spread broadcast and those who heard him will do well to pass the word along.

America today faces the demand for better men and women and only in the rising generation will the answer be found.

The dedication of the new Southern Pacific station in Glendale is a stepping stone in progress. Few people were present at the ceremonies, held despite the unlikely looking weather, but all should realize the tremendous effort it has taken to obtain for this city an edifice of transportation which is entirely fitting and proper.

Hollywood and Pasadena, as well as Glendale and its adjacent territory, will be served by this new station. Modern, slightly and architecturally a gem it seems good to know that officials of the Southern Pacific recognize this fastest growing city in America with a material gift which shall long be cherished in the hearts of those who have the best interests of Glendale at heart.

Now is the season of the year to prepare for a home. If you have not a lot on which to build, buy one. Start the shrubs and trees now; yes, lay out a garden in your vacant property and enjoy the vegetable harvest. Really you will recall the war days when all vacant tillable property was cultivated. What a wonderful experience it was. And, really, it was profitable in more ways than one. It taught many of the city dwellers the value of the soil.

Much rather than the weeds and unsightly vacant lots we would like to see gardens, orchards of fruit and vine covered homes. If you once become interested in gardening you will want a home of your own. And when everyone owns a home this country will be safe from any red menace.

There is no anarchy, no rebellion and mighty little crime among a home-owning populace. Thank heaven that Glendale is a community of homes.

Read the real estate advertising today—and every day. Become interested in the building of Glendale. It will pay you large dividends. Bring your relatives and friends to live here, provided of course they have the means or the faithful occupation which merits their residence in this favored clime.

Glendale needs the personal touch in its appeal. You and you alone can give it. Invite residents of Los Angeles, with whom you are acquainted to see this favored clime. Joaquin Miller, John Steven McGroarty and others have described its beauty in poetry and prose. Pictures and floral floats have told the story. Why, then, this humble writer has written thousands of words about Glendale. We have exhausted our vocabulary twice over, yet the city grows more beautiful day by day. And it is more progressive.

All we need most do now is to keep the pace, not lose in interest in the race for the supremacy of Glendale—that always is the goal. Surely you will do your share.

TALKS ON JAPAN

Miss Matilda Spencer, a returned missionary from Japan, was present at the devotional meeting held last night in the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital and gave an interesting account of some of her experiences in Japan during the recent earthquake.

LA CRESCENTA

MOURN DEATH OF CHURCH WORKER

Lay Reader at St. Luke's
Mission Passed Away
At Pasadena Home

Friends and members of St. Luke's of the Mountains Episcopal guild regretted very deeply the death of N. A. Noble of Pasadena. Mr. Noble had served this mission as a lay-reader, only being absent when ill. He was a member of the building committee, being an architect.

Funeral services were held at All Saints church of Pasadena. Dr. Remison of Eagle Rock officiating. Officers of the Guild of St. Luke of the Mountains were deterred from attending the funeral by the inclement weather.

George Hoffman, of the firm of Luxman & Hoffman, contractors, underwent a successful operation for appendicitis at Dr. Uley's sanatorium on Upper Briggs terrace. Mr. Hoffman is reported as resting quite nicely.

Firms Consolidate
A new water company has come into being through the consolidation of the La Crescenta Mutual Water company and the Dunsmore Canyon Water company. The new company will be known as the Mountain Water company. It is understood property owners of Briggs terrace and east are anxious to receive service from this company. They are willing to pay a bonus of $100 per acre, besides the expense incurred by the laying of pipes, it is said.

The play produced through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Culbertson for the benefit of the Women's club building fund was well attended. Everyone enjoyed the evening's offering, which was changed from "Cousin Kate" to "Green Stockings" at the last minute. The Modern Mummies are well known.

A get-together supper was held by the officers and council of Verdugo City for the purpose of forming a syndicate or stock company to build a brick building on the corner of the Fowler tract. It is understood a good portion of the sum necessary for the undertaking has been raised. The building will house a theatre and drug store on the ground floor, while the upper stories will be for offices.

Tonight is the time to wear your old duds, as the Improvement association is giving a hard times dance. The committee requests everyone to come suitably attired. There will be old-fashioned square dances.

PAINTER, WRITER
VISITING MOTHER

Frederick Roland Miner May Take Up Residence in Glendale Again

Frederick Roland Miner, formerly a resident of Glendale, who has since won distinction both as a painter of California scenery and a writer of the beauty of nature in the golden west, is a recent arrival in the city, stopping for the present at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital with his mother, Mrs. N. J. Miner, a guest of the institution.

His latest book "The Great Outdoor Southland of California," published in December, 1923, was written largely from his own experiences covering many years spent in Southern California's great outdoors, and it is interesting to note that it is finding its way into libraries of the far east, seven copies having been placed in the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh, Pa. A copy is also available in the Glendale Library and is a welcome addition to the department of California books.

Listed in "Who's Who."
He has been a contributor to magazines with poetry and prose since early youth, taking up the study of art much later. In the issue of "Who's Who" for 1924, he has been given noteworthy recognition of his painting "Winter in the Southland," which was awarded a bronze medal at the last world exposition, also the fact that he studied under John Corlison and William Wendt. Three of his pictures, hung in the new Glendale Sanitarium, have been placed on exhibition in various prominent places, one of these, a fog picture, receiving third place in a field of sixty-five in a recent popularity contest at Laguna Art Association. Two of his paintings are on exhibit this week with those of members of the Glendale Art Association. The West Shore of Catalina" at Glendale Paint & Paper company, 119 South Brand boulevard and another in a window within the 200 block.

Now City Lots
He left Glendale fifteen years ago and disposed of his property, then a citrus grove, on East Broadway, and has been much interested in finding the tract laid out in city lots. Mr. Miner is being warmly welcomed by old time friends and is receiving a cordial welcome from the Glendale Art Association of which he has signified his intention of becoming a member. He is a charter member of the California Art club, a member of the Laguna Art Association and the Society of Independent Artists of New York city.

Mr. Miner is also president of the Sierra Land and Water company, Rush Creek Mutual Ditch company and treasurer of an oil company. Having disposed of his home in Los Angeles some time ago, he is looking for a new location and will open a studio shortly. His friends are in hopes that since he is finding Glendale attractive from many points of view, he may decide to locate in this vicinity.

LEGION MEMBERS
DISCUSS BANQUET

Adjutant Baron at Head of Committee to Arrange
Plans for Event

At the regular weekly meeting of Verdugo Hills post, No. 288, the business of getting up their first annual mess call was discussed. A committee on arrangements, with Adjutant Baron as the head, will have charge of the work.

A report on the results of "Si Slocum" Country Store" benefit was read, the play bringing in $46 as a total. Adding $4 to this sum, the "Buddies" set aside $50 as a "nest egg" for the building fund. Adjutant E. E. McWain of Glendale post, No. 127, gave a talk on Legion work.

Comrade Lindsay, a disabled veteran, who makes brooms, brought some of his work. The local boys purchased a broom by popular donation. The attendance prize of the evening was won by Comrade Ray Cole, who carried off the $1 bill provided by Sergeant at Arms C. C. Adams.

Comrade Sullivan is looking forward to a big night on April 16, when the post will entertain State Commander James Collins of Long Beach. This entertainment will be a regular mess, and the buddies have invited Si Slocum and his sister Dolly, with the other players, to be the guests of Post No. 288. This dinner will be held in La Crescenta school-house.

Form Auxiliary
The ladies whose better halves belong to the Legion are forming an auxiliary. The new dishes were used this week to serve coffee and doughnuts. Adjutant Baron was in charge of the lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson are sojourning for a fortnight in Soboba Hot Springs. Mr. Anderson felt the need of a rest from his business duties.

'Aerial Hobo' Arrives

PASADENA, March 29.—Lieutenant Frank E. Benedict, probably the first "aerial hobo," is now at Kelly Field, Texas, after "bumming" his way from Clover Field, Calif., with Captain Hal Griffin and Lieutenants T. H. Chapman, B. E. Gates, A. A. Kessler, O. R. Cook and H. T. Larson. They were all in Pasadena recently, guests at a dinner given by Pasadena Lodge of Elks to the officers of San Pedro lodge.

From there, he will fill up some other vacant space in some plane going east, hoping by successive rides, to reach the east coast, whereupon he will turn around and try to do the same thing back again. He estimates his journey there and back again will take two months.

Lieutenant Benedict has been active in the reserve aviation corps since the war and has frequently participated in flights at Clover Field. He was formerly engaged in the automobile business in Pasadena and is well known in fraternal circles.

In Blockade of Snow

SAN BERNARDINO, March 29.—Continued snow in the Laku Arrowhead region has brought in to use giant scrapers, which are now at work converting the blocked roads into magic canyons through which the scores of marooned motorists are descending to the safety of the foothill cities, with thrilling tales of the Arctic weather in the fastnesses of the mountains.

Chosen as Conductor

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.—Alfred Hertz, director of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, former director of the Hollywood Bowl Symphony orchestra, has been chosen as conductor of this year's summer season at the Bowl. He will be the guest of honor at a civic dinner at the Women's club on April 7, when the season will be officially launched.

STUNNING ARRAY OF LATE STYLES LURES VISITORS

Paris Shoppe's Style Show
Reveals Bewildering
Assortments

Fashion features pleased last night at the spring revue at the Paris Shoppe at 222 North Brand boulevard, where the fashion show was repeated for the benefit of those who were prevented by rain from venturing out on Wednesday night.

Beautiful materials, bright colors and exquisite styles combined in the bewildering array of spring things shown. The display was arranged by Beryl Polley and her assistants, Maxine Booth and "Miss Buddy," three professional models from Los Angeles. It was a wondrous showing of imported copies and domestic models that demonstrated most conclusively to those present that milady need not feel that it is necessary to leave Glendale in order to purchase smart clothes.

Variety of Gowns
There were charming combinations in black and white. Also many stunning sport models were shown, and sequin gowns for evening wear, direct from the importer; mandarin and mah jongg dresses in pleasing variety, and distinctive sport and evening coats. A complete line of spring millinery was displayed, featuring smart sport hats in cloth and straw.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Rosenblum, proprietors of the shop, and John Gross of Los Angeles, welcomed the visitors, who filled every available space in the salesroom. The crowds were very important and going during the evening.

During the fashion revue music was furnished by O'Brien's five-piece orchestra.

'SMILES OF 1924' PLAYS PASADENA

Sparkling Comedy Will Open
In School Auditorium
On April 5th

One of the most interesting attractions of the present theatrical season will be the De Reat-Bostick's new production "Smiles of 1924" which comes to the Pasadena High school auditorium for a limited engagement on Saturday, April 5.

The new coast directors, De Reat-Bostick, have assembled a capable company of upward of fifty entertainers for this spring's tour, and some very important theatre names comprise this organization, such as Annette Kellerman, the wonder girl, who will make her initial bow to the theatre goers of Pasadena on Saturday afternoon and night.

Strong Comedy Cast
Abe Lyman's theatrical addition of his Ambassador band syndicators, Belcher's ballet, and a trio of comedians, namely Harry Gribbin of stage and screen fame; Rex Story, formerly of Ziegfeld Follies; and Rudolph Valentino's only rival for beauty, Bull Montana. A chorus of many beautiful and handsome maidens support the stellar roles—selected not only for beauty but ability to sing and dance. The wardrobe will be the latest word in splendor and the newest creations of the leading modiste. The lyrics and music are from the pen of Joe Burrows, who, in the past has given many good things to music lovers, namely, The Newcomers, and he ably contributed to the success of the Greenwich Follies, and in the present undertaking Mr. Burrows gives promise of surpassing his former achievements.

Seats are now to be had at Hunter & Williams, 49 East Colorado street, Pasadena, the scale of prices ranging from 50 cents to $2.00. Early reservations are urged as, owing to the limited engagement, many will be disappointed. This affair is being staged under auspices of the Pasadena lodge of Elks.

Commission Favors Boulevard Widening

proposed route, leaving the City Hall 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, April 2.

It was recommended that, ultimately, Verdugo road between Glendale avenue on the south and the Spurr Heights district on the north, be widened into a uniform 100-foot boulevard, in order to accommodate the traffic that will develop there in the next year or so; and that future subdivision maps be made to show Verdugo road as a boulevard of this width, so that the widening may be accomplished when the time comes without condemnation proceedings.

It was recommended that Forest avenue, connecting Brand boulevard and Glendale avenue, in South Glendale, be improved at once with a 50-foot roadway, with 10 feet on the south side for parking and a six-foot sidewalk on the north side.

Other recommendations of a minor character were made to the City Council at last night's meeting of the City Planning commission, and numerous projects were discussed. The members of the body are: T. W. Watson, chairman; Percy J. Hayselden, secretary; and J. H. Randall, Harry Hague and Edgar Kinch.

Store Owner Has Her Life Insured at Three Million

Mrs. Mollie Netcher Newbury

Her life is insured for $3,000,000. Mrs. Mollie Netcher Newbury of Chicago, owner and director of a department store, now is the most heavily insured woman in the world. Mrs. Marshall Field III, whose money also came from a Chicago store, with $2,000,000 insurance is second.

BENTLEY, BROWN SCHOOL TRUSTEES

Board Will Reorganize at Meeting to Be Held at Noon, May 5

Mr. Bentley, "I wish to express my thanks and to assure my supporters, and the district as a whole, that I will do my best to merit the confidence displayed in me."

Dr. Brown, too, expressed his appreciation of the support that re-elected him to the board.

Public Interest
Commenting on the election, Principal George U. Moyses of the Glendale Union High school calls attention to the interest shown by the public in the election of school trustees, stating that 1546 votes cast in this precinct alone indicates clearly a sense of responsibility in educational affairs that marks one reason why Glendale is a fast-growing, progressive city.

"When it is considered that last year the high school board had under its jurisdiction the expenditure of approximately $1,000,000, in building construction, maintenance and other expenses of a great educational plant, it is seen that the position of high school trustee is one of the most important that a resident of a city is called upon to fill."

George H. Bentley, now a member of the Glendale Union High school board, is secretary of the Bentley Lumber Company and has been prominent in Glendale for ten years, coming here in 1914 on October 4 of that year marrying Miss Louise Walley of Long Beach. They have four children: Two boys, Howard, aged 11, and Wayne, aged 8; and two girls, Helen, aged 3, and Lois, aged 6. They recently moved into their new home at 1544 Virginia avenue.

Mr. Bentley is a trustee of the First Baptist church, a director of the Community Savings and Commercial bank, a member of the Glendale lodge of Elks, Glendale Shrine club, Glendale Rotary club, Glendale Chamber of Commerce, Unity lodge, No. 368, F. and A. M., Glendale commandery No. 53, Knights Templar, Al Malaikah Shrine, L. A., and Oakmont Country club.

Dr. Harry V. Brown, Glendale physician and incumbent, is the clerk of the Glendale Union High school board of trustees, has been a resident of this city since the fall of 1917, coming in that year from Los Angeles, where he had previously engaged in the practice of medicine.

Dr. Brown is a native of Charlton, Iowa, and has three children: Agnes, aged 21; Bertha, aged 18, and Elizabeth, aged 14. Their present home is at 118 West Wilson avenue.

Active in every phase of Glendale life, Dr. Brown is a member of the American Legion, Elks' lodge, has Masonic affiliations, and is a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Glendale Physicians' club, Glendale Credit association and Chamber of Commerce.

Air Liners Soon Will Be Crossing America

DETROIT, Mich., March 29.—"Within twenty years" time giant air liners will be transporting the traveling public from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, and every important city will have several large air ports to provide landing facilities for the hundreds of successful commercial airships which will dot the skies.

This was one of the interesting prophecies made by Anthony Fokker, whose pursuit planes wrote his name in large imperishable letters across the war-torn sky in France and Belgium during the World war, in an address given before the Society of Automotive Engineers.

FASHION EXHIBIT PRIZES AWARDED BY L. A. EXPERTS

Glendale Stores Praised for Artistic Displays of Latest Styles

The big event of today, the closing day in Glendale's four-day spring fashion exposition, was the announcement of the stores cited for specially attractive window displays and of those Glendaleans receiving the fifteen cash prizes for coming nearest to picking the winning windows as decided by the Los Angeles experts, who awarded ribbons to the stores having the most artistic showings in their windows.

That Glendale merchants are keeping pace with the modern and artistic window decorations in cities of larger size, is seen in the difficulty the three judges found in making their decisions.

The spring fashion exposition and prize contest was inaugurated and carried out under the auspices of The Glendale Shopping News, the weekly publication that is sponsored by a group of Glendale's leading commercial establishments.

Judges were Harold D. Nickel of the N. B. Blackstone company; Russell J. Moores of the Ville de Paris and B. H. Dyas company; and W. G. Petri of Bedell company. All are experts in display work and they paid high compliment to Glendale merchants in the success and artistry of the exposition.

Winners Are Chosen
Their selection of winning stores as to classes were:

Department store class, Pendroy's first; Webb's second.

Men's store class, Robinson's first; Webb's second.

Ready-to-wear class, Fashion Center first; Hatz's second.

Drug store class, Owl Shoe store class, Glendale Bootery first; Crofton's second.

Automobile display class, Buick first; Studebaker second.

Furniture store class, New England first; Pasadena branch store second.

Electric store class, Newton's first; Glendale Electric company second.

Dry Goods store class, Glendale Dry Goods store first; Irish Linen store second.

Paint store class, Glendale Paint company.

Hardware store class, Wilson-Bell Co. first; Cornwell & Kelly second.

Music store class, Glendale Music company first; Glendale Phonograph company second.

Cafe class, Chateau de Qualite first; Poppy Shoppe second.

Millinery class, Marion Elizabeth first; Gilbert's second.

Florist class, Pasadena's first; Glendale Florist second.

Jewelry class, Dibern's first; Lewis's second.

Tailor class, A. Gelmor.

Specialty class, Sherrods.

Any other class, Japan Art & Tea store, first; Art & Gift shop, second.

Individual Prizes
Added interest is the list of Glendaleans fortunate in winning the fifteen cash prizes. At each store participating in the fashion exposition there was a ballot box and everyone was privileged to vote on the window they thought would be selected as a prize-winner. Those whose votes tallied with the decision of the judges were awarded the following prizes:

Prizes of $5 each: Mrs. A. R. Seifert of 518 East Palmer avenue; Mrs. J. H. Coleman, 1145 Green street; J. E. Phillips, 202 North Brand boulevard; George Taylor, 360 West Myrtle street; Charles Sherrod, Jr., 244 North Kenwood street.

Prizes of $3 each: Robert Danner, 1631 Gardena avenue; Hazel White, 811 North Jackson street; Norman Beggs, 414 East Colorado street; Mrs. H. G. Hoedinghaus, 1211 North Brand boulevard; A. C. Holcomb, 1154 Viola avenue.

Prizes of $2 each: Mrs. Jack Hale, 1205 Grand View avenue; Mrs. Marie Gifford, 414 East Wilson avenue; E. K. Hills, 2121 Verdugo road; Clara M. Nye, 520 Fisher street; Mrs. A. E. Bates, 319 North Maryland avenue.

Prizes of $1 each: Mrs. A. E. Bates, 319 North Maryland avenue.

the comb and start the disastrous slide. The bridge over Provo river was virtually torn out by the force of the slide, as well as all telegraph and telephone lines.

Rescue workers are digging frantically to extricate the five missing men. The injured men were rushed by special train to a hospital here. Railroad officials here declared they had information of the slide but gave no details of the disaster, owing to the inability to get in communication with men in the canyon.

Huge Wall of Water Menaces People, Property

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 29.—A great wall of water is rushing down the Potomac river this afternoon. Already a half million dollars damage has been done. The entire Georges creek section is under water. Many residents at Piedmont and Western Port have been forced to flee for their lives. Willis creek is overflowing, flooding many streets in Cumberland.

Railroad service has been suspended entirely on the Western Maryland system west of here. Trains are marooned near Cumberland. No word has been received from the special train of Shriners en route from Cumberland to Baltimore.

Eight Dead, 80 Hurt In Oklahoma Tornado

SHAWNEE, Okla., March 29.—Eight persons are dead, twenty seriously hurt, two probably fatally, and sixty others slightly injured today as a result of a tornado which swept here late yesterday.

The path of the tornado was two blocks wide and nine blocks long.

Approximately 200 houses were swept away in the best residential section of the city, causing heavy property damage.

Students Escape
Four hundred students narrowly escaped serious injury or death as the school building from which they had been dismissed only a few minutes before was demolished. Only the janitor was in the building and he escaped injury, being at work in the basement.

The storm area was said to have covered Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas. Telephone and telegraph communication is badly crippled. A cold wave was spreading throughout the southwest in the wake of the storm.

Gale Brings 54 Degree Drop In Temperature

KEARNEY, Neb., March 29.—Starting with a light shower, turning to sleet, hail and then snow, fanned by a high northwest gale and accompanied by a drop of fifty-four degrees in temperature in less than twelve hours, central Nebraska slipped into overcoats this morning and hit the drifts. The going under foot, none too secure, was all the more uncomfortable because of a forty-mile gale blowing. Trains were badly behind schedule on the main line and branches. Telephone and telegraph communication was badly disturbed. Temperature reading yesterday at 5 P. M. was 74; this morning it dropped to 20 above.

CIVIL WAR VETS, RELIEF CORPS IN MONTHLY MEET

All-Day Session Is Attended
By 125 Members of Organizations

An unusually interesting and enjoyable program was presented yesterday afternoon during the regular monthly all day meeting of the W. R. C. and G. A. R. The program was preceded by the regular business session of the G. A. R., and the monthly dinner served by the members of the W. R. C. There were fifteen visitors present and about 125 members in attendance.

The program was opened with the singing of one verse of "America." Other numbers on the program included vocal numbers by Dr. P. O. Lucas, "Flanders Field" and "Songs of the Desert"; readings by Mrs. Simmons, "The Soliloquy of Housekeeper" and "The Twins."

March On Patriotism
Especially enjoyable was the patriotic talk given by Comrade Tilton, former past department commander of Oklahoma G. A. R. Comrade and Mrs. Tilton are recent arrivals here and have already become affiliated with the G. A. R. and W. R. C. here.

Comrade Luther of Los Angeles, in addition to an informal talk, gave a reading, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine," which was greatly enjoyed.

The invitation extended to the members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. by Rev. W. E. Edmonds to attend the special Memorial Day services to be conducted at the Presbyterian church of which he is pastor, was read.

At the close of the open meeting the members of the W. R. C. held a short session with the president, Mrs. Mary Bennett, in charge. At this time two candidates for membership were initiated and several prospective members balloted on.

Woman, 60, Man, 39, In Business Marriage

GREILEY, Colo., March 29.—A "business marriage," according to the reported terms of a prenuptial agreement, occurred here when Mrs. Florence Lear, 60, became the bride of William H. Barnes, 39.

According to the asserted arrangement, Barnes relinquishes all claims to half of his wife's estate should she die before he does. In return Mrs. Barnes is said to have agreed to make a will bequeathing all of her property to Barnes, the will including a provision that the instrument shall be void if the marriage proves an unhappy one. Witnesses of the pre-nuptial agreement declare that Mrs. Barnes, who is said to possess an extensive estate, but is in poor health, desired "protection" for the remainder of her life, prompting her to make the pact with Barnes, who is robust.

gale, sleet and snow were reported from all sections of the state. Temperature at Lincoln at 7 a. m. was 29 above zero, and turning colder.

Tornado Takes Toll Of Life In Missouri

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—Four persons were reported killed, 17 seriously injured and scores painfully hurt, many houses unroofed, telephone poles blown down, trees uprooted and train service in some sections demoralized, by a series of tornadoes that swept over Missouri and western Illinois last night and early today.

Four Trainmen Die As Bridge Collapses

NEWARK, Ohio, March 29.—Four trainmen lost their lives when a Baltimore and Ohio freight train crashed through a bridge near here today. The dead are:

Louis Castla, engineer; H. F. Gartner, fireman; J. A. Bidwell, conductor; Robert Powell, brakeman.

The bridge, over a creek, weakened by flood waters, collapsed as the engine reached the center. The entire train dropped into the stream below and the trainmen were buried beneath the wreckage.

Great Lakes Region Swept by Tornadoes

CHICAGO, March 29.—Winds of nearly tornado velocity and torrential rains washed Chicago and the Great Lakes territory as the end of the southwestern tornado lashed its way north. An unusually heavy hail fall accompanied the brief storm.

Telephone and telephone wires were practically silent northwest from Chicago. Limited service only was maintained on the few lines the storm left standing.

Eighteen Glendaleans Attend District Meet

Eighteen women of Glendale attended the First District conference of Parent-Teacher Associations held Thursday at Santa Monica. The morning session opened with the president's council with the district federation president, Mrs. Shelton Bissell, in charge. This was followed by a parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. E. B. Wyman of Glendale, district parliamentarian.

Round tables were conducted on "Education" by the chairmen of the various districts. Glendale was represented by Mrs. E. G. Pomeroy, who spoke on "Scholarship"; Mrs. H. V. Henry, on "Extension" and Mrs. Buckman on "Better Films." Miss Green of the Alhambra library gave a talk on children's literature. The afternoon was devoted to lectures by Dr. Blanchard and Dr. Sasrow of the medical clinics, who gave outlines of their work and instructive talks on "Health."

RADIO SET WILL BRING HAPPINESS TO INJURED GIRL

Leoma Crowell's Chums Buy
Gift to Lighten Long
Hours on Sick Bed

Little Leoma Crowell, 11-year-old student at La Crescenta school, will lie in a bed at the Glendale Research hospital probably for another month. She was badly injured March 17 when she was struck and run over by a motor truck while returning home from school.

But, despite her pain, the little girl today is happy. Her school chums have bought aerial wire; the father of Gladys Knox, her "particular chum," has provided a radio receiving set and it will be installed in Leoma's room by Mr. Knox and the adept hands of the boys of her school.

With her head adjusted, Leoma will listen to the strains of music, to the daily bedtime stories and all the other forms of entertainment made available to her by her playmates. But Leoma says that isn't the best part of the pleasure. Her greatest joy is the knowledge that her chums are doing this just for her.

Chums Are Happy
And the school boys and girls who have given up their little savings to provide entertainment for Leoma are happy in the giving. They claim they are getting as much fun out of it as will Leoma.

The child suffered a broken collar bone, her face was badly scratched and bruised and the left ear was nearly severed from her head when she was dragged along the pavement for thirty feet by the heavy truck.

She was accompanied by Eileen Karr, a school chum, when Leoma ran out into the road after a stone she had thrown, stepping directly in the path of the truck. John F. Lewis, driver of the truck belonging to Peter L. Ferry, contractor, tried to stop. The truck skidded about sixty feet, dragging the child's body in such manner that her hair was ground into the pavement, witnesses said.

BARGAIN BILL AT SOX PARK SUNDAY

Pasadena and Glendale Play Second of Series; K. C. Meet Alhambra

A grudge fight on the diamond will feature the bargain bill to be staged at the White Sox park tomorrow afternoon, when the Pasadena Merchants invade Glendale again, determined to even up the series with the local team, which was started a week ago last Sunday, and postponed last Sunday on account of rain.

"Lefty" Thomas, who held the Sox to a few scattering hits and a lone run for seven innings on the last appearance of the Merchants here, will be on the mound for Pasadena. Thomas has been working out conscientiously since that memorial game, when he blew up in the eighth inning, and the White Sox sluggers pounded in enough runs to tie the score. He swears there will be no aviation stunts tomorrow. Big Bill Haas will be at the receiving end for the visitors.

Manager Frank Kerwin announced bright and early this morning that Thornton or Benjie Hall would be sent in against the Merchants, with Lewis doing the heavy work behind the plate. Thornton did the hurling for the Sox in the first game of the series.

Winner Take All
The series is being played on a winner-take-all basis, and the out of three games will bring home the bacon. A victory for the White Sox tomorrow will help fill the local coffers and terminate the series, while a win for Pasadena will mean added suspense and the third and deciding game next week.

Captain Carl Sawyer has taken under his wing "Speedy" Allington, hard-hitting youngster, who covered himself with glory while romping around the gardens for the Van Nuys team. Allington will try out tomorrow with the White Sox, and if he can deliver the goods, he will put his signature on the dotted line as a regular wearer of the pale hose.

The big game is scheduled to start at 2 o'clock, and some of the best brand of baseball ever dished up for local fans will be on tap, according to advance dope from the two rival camps.

Casays to Play
The Glendale Knights of Columbus team will clash with the Alhambra squad as the curtain-raiser. This game will start at 12 o'clock noon, in order to have it over and out of the way in time for the Pasadena-White Sox scrap.

The game scheduled last Sunday between the local Casays and Long Beach, which was postponed on account of rain, will be played at some future date. The K. C. teams are playing on a regular schedule fixed early in the season, and games postponed or called off for any reason will have to lay over until the first open date.

Glendale Avenue Team Trims Wilson Avenue

The Wilson Avenue junior baseball team were the losers in an indoor game against the Glendale Avenue team Friday by a score of 10 to 5. The game was quick and snappy, the nine full innings played in 35 minutes. John May brought in a home run for Glendale Avenue.

For Glendale Avenue: May, c.; Robinson, p.; King, 1b.; Diederich, 2b.; Thrasher, ss.; Marshall, 3b.; Madril, 1b.; Fisher, cf.; Patterson, rf.; Wilson boys were: Morgan, c.; Schickler, p.; Anderson, 1b.; Zimmer, 2b.; Yasado, 3b.; Kausen, ss.; Klein, 1b.; Kenney, cf.; Hankey, rf.; subs, Forrester, Kent, Wilkins, Broom, Fallis, Sherman, Torrey, Walter F. Hansen and H. E. Bremer upfield.

Veteran Cage Squad Win 147th In Row

The Passaic, N. J., High school basketball team recently scored its 147th consecutive victory by defeating the Christian Brothers of Syracuse, 29 to 17.

The members of this team have played together for eight consecutive years, through grammar school and high school. Their team work is said to be the best ever shown in this country.

Dodger Holdout Wins, Reports for Training

A report from New York states that Johnny Jones, star Beaver shortstop last year, who was purchased by Brooklyn for $25,000, will report at once to the Dodger training camp at Clearwater, Fla.

Johnny has been holding out for a slice of the purchase price, and although details of the settlement were not disclosed, it is unofficially understood the ex-Portland sensation won out.

WINS SCHOOL TITLE

A 8-2 class team of Wilson Avenue school captured the class championship when they won the final game of the class baseball series this week. Boys who carried off this honor were Arthur Eudson, c.; Frank Wykoff, p.; Leeland Gasser, 1b.; Ross Kenney, cf.; Carter Booth, rf.; Charles Kausen, ss.; George Gray, 1b.; Reggie Rattray, 2b.; Lloyd Morgan, 3b.; subs, Elliott Wyman, Jack Hileman, Norman Brown.

Rumors, Denials, Alibis

By F. A. GRAHAM

Hustle—that's the secret of the difference between popularity and oblivion, between excellence and mediocrity, success and failure. This, like many other maxims, applies to life in general and baseball in particular. It is the simple secret of baseball success. It is the secret of success in any walk of life.

Take nine mediocre players and get them to hustling and in nine cases out of ten they will run nine non-hustling stars bowlegged. While it is a bit difficult to explain in so many words just what is meant by hustle, every baseball fan will recognize the element without explanation. The fan appreciates hustle on the field above everything else and will often condone errors made by a player if he is convinced that the player is hustling. Nothing arouses the animosity of a fan quicker than the absence of hustle and there are many ball players who will never be popular with the public because they do not show a willingness to hustle at all times. No names need be mentioned, you can pick them out from memory.

Cites White Sox
A case in point is the Glendale White Sox. The re-organized team, composed of men who play the game more for the love of it than anything else and who, therefore, hustle all the time, has made good showings and won the last four starts. In one of these games they came from behind with the odds and a one-sided score against them and took the game into an extra inning to win. That's hustle. That team will be popular with the fans and receive good support. No coaxing will be necessary to get the crowds. When they deliver the goods the crowds will come.

The Angels and Tigers are not expected to win the pennant this year. This year they both have replaced veterans with young blood and the youngsters have to hustle. They probably do from love of the game, but in any case they will, to avoid being sent to lesser leagues for further experience. Veterans, when they get to a certain stage in their careers, give just as much effort to their playing as they think they have to. The youngster gives it all. That tells the whole story.

Several Hustlers
Conversation does not always signify hustle. A glib player is very apt to be a hustler, but some of the quiet ones are also. George Burns, sometimes called Silent George, was one of the hustlingest hustlers in the game. Herzog had plenty of hustle. Ping Bodie, now with the Vernon Tigers, would never have made the big leagues without his hustle. The list of hustlers can be stretched considerably—Ty Cobb, the Georgia Peach; Rabbit Maranville; George Sisler, considered by some critics as the greatest living first baseman; the late Tony Boeckel, Honus Wagner, Eddie Collins, Cy Perkins, Tris Speaker

President Angell, of Yale, has suggested that Big Three football coaches be removed to the stands when the games begin. It is now up to the coaches to suggest that President Angell try to run his university from the New Haven Railroad depot.

The Free-for-All
Baseball has its three-time winners, the Giants and Yankees; tennis has its Bill Tilden, who looks good for years unless barred by the player-writer rule; boxing has Jack Dempsey and Benny Leonard, who should rule its most popular classes, the heavyweight and lightweight divisions, for some years. Golf? It is less certain than the path of a water bug.

Take the open championship, for example. Bobby Jones, at 22, is the present title holder. Does this mean that, having many years of competition before him, he should dominate the field? Not by the length of your retort, please.

He will be an 8 to 1 bet at the next open championship. The answer? Simply this: Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Jack Hutchinson, Joe Kirkwood, Jim Barnes, Leo Diegel, John Farrell, Shiek Evans and a half dozen others who figure to play within a couple of strokes—better or worse—of any champion's total.

If we had a dozen heavyweights as good as Dempsey he would be lucky to last the year out as champion. The wear and tear of competition, if nothing else, would get him.

THE IMPOSSIBLE
I'd write some verse, A little worse Than usual, though it win me The boob's caress, But I confess I haven't got it in me.

Waterbury, Conn., wishes to suggest that Vincent Richards, recent bridegroom, should have a great year in mixed doubles.

A rolling "bone" gathers no loss—if you know how to make the seven's show.

GOLF'S AUTOMATON
Gene Sarazen, America's leading professional golfer, recently defeated Arthur Havers, British title holder, and became unofficial champion of the world. As such he is hailed as the master linksman and any number of others. Long after Mike Donlin's legs had begun to fail him his spirit of hustle made him valuable to his club and the crowds loved Mike.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
CLEARWATER, Fla., March 29.—The Brooklyn Dodger pitching staff was recruited, as every big league crew is—from the tall and uncut. But Uncle Robbie, the tundra leader of the outfit, seems to have found them where they grow unusually tall. Most of his flingers look down on six footers as little fellows.

Harry Shriver, for instance, stands a miser, six foot four inches. Paul Schreiber is one inch shorter, due to a slight stoop he has acquired looking for additions to his pitching repertoire.

Dazzy Vance is six feet one but doesn't crouch out when he's near Shriver. Young Nelson Green goes a fraction over six feet.

Alongside these skyscrapers little Danny McPhee, from St. Thomas, Ont., looks quite tiny although he boasts of about five feet eight inches altitude. But that doesn't worry Danny.

Up where I came from I pitched against a lot of big fellows. When they were big I whittled 'em down to my size," he confided.

Having gotten rid of that remark he ducked half a dozen gloves and extra bats and then came back to tell a bit more about himself.

McPhee hails from the town that John Gladstone Graney, the greatest waiver baseball ever knew, made famous. Daniel pitched for the St. Thomas team in the Ontario Baseball association—a league composed of the dominant semi-pro teams in the Dominion.

McPhee's team finished second in the league scramble last season, Danny losing the title game in a 14-inning battle with Galt.

"And the play that won the game for Galt was one for the book," says Dan.

"The last man up in the fourteenth smacked one for a double base and tried to stretch it to three bases. The fielder hit him on the head with the ball and the runner dropped to the ground and acted as if he were unconscious."

Then when he heard the crowd yelling that the ball had bounded into the stands he got up and ran like blazes for home. And he got away with it. Look that one over."

McPhee has a lot of smoke for a little fellow and a nice change of pace. He seems to have the physique to stand the gaft, too. With the average pitching staff he wouldn't create the impression of diminutiveness he does with Robinson's sun flowers.

Despite his dig at the tall boys Daniel is a modest youth. He tells of an Indian pitcher that went from the Dominion to Rochester this spring that was a hummer in the Canadian circuit. He's a left-hander and pitched for Belleville.

If he gets going good he may be the next "Big Indian" in the big show, opines McPhee.

man, the great stylist, and, no doubt, that is as right as rat poison.

Now, for the first, to-wit: According to those closely connected with the champion, he hasn't the slightest idea of how or why he makes his shots. He is, it seems, a custom-made golfer, who plays the game intuitively and whose undoubted ability is largely mechanical.

The tip off, it is said, comes when Sarazen's slumps in some particular and he needs must call upon a brother "pro" to tell him the cause. Self-analysis, it appears, is denied him.

DATE OF CONTEST IN LACROSSE SET

Match Definitely Arranged for April 6 Between All-Star Teams

Unique in Glendale sports, what will be virtually an international lacrosse match has been definitely arranged for April 6, it was announced today by Ralph Hemphill, member of the Scots committee in charge of the event.

The match is sponsored by the Scots and the Scots band. The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of sending the band and drill team to the state convention to be held in Redding next June.

An all-star lacrosse team has been picked by the Glendale organization in this city. Los Angeles Long Beach and Santa Monica, to meet the crack Southern California Canadian Club team. Both are composed of players who have made records in Canada and in the East where lacrosse has become one of the most popular of sports.

Final arrangements for the match were completed last night. The game will begin immediately after a concert by the Scots Band at 2 o'clock, April 6 at the Glendale White Sox Park.

Hemphill said today arrangements will probably be made by the committee to provide a free dinner to the winning team. An announcer, with megaphone, will explain details of the game to the spectators prior to the beginning of the match.

Plans have been made to construct bleachers at the ball park to handle the crowd that is expected. A band stand will be erected directly in front of the grandstand.

The match, Hemphill said, will be the first of many that are all being planned. Many Glendale lacrosse fans have announced their intention, he said, of attending a game to be held Sunday at Long Beach.

SPEED KINGS IN SUNDAY LINE-UP

Eight Cornered Battle to Furnish Thrills for Ascot Patrons

With Mary Pickford's handsome trophy and an augmented cash prize as the lure for the daredevils to break records in the Dorothy Vernon Sweepstakes at Ascot Speedway Sunday afternoon, racing fans are eagerly awaiting the dipping of starter Paul Derkum's flag.

Ralph DePalma and seven other noted pilots will compete in the eight-cornered battle royal, while Sig Haugdahl, world's speed king, will use his Fiat in the Ascot Helmet Dash, and drive his 150 miles an hour Florida Beach car against the track record he established at Ascot three weeks ago. Ten events are on the program, three for motorcycles and seven for automobiles.

In the motor-bike division there will be another of the thrilling side-car races, with Ralph Hepburn, Gene Walker, Johnny Seymour and Ray Weishaar equal favorites with the practice-hounds.

Art Davidson, Freddy Frame, "Babe" Stapp, Fred Lecklider, Fred Horey, Jack Petticoat, Leon Duray and Eddie Meyer are among the drivers most likely to give Haugdahl and DePalma the toughest battles.

Low Cody, noted motion picture star and sportsman, is to serve as referee, having acted in that capacity at the last Beverly race.

A large rowd of motion picture stars have made reservations, the appearance of Marilyn Miller, late star of "Sally," and Lottie Pickford, as starters of the Mary Pickford race, adding greatly to the regular interest displayed by the celebrities in Ascot programs. The first race starts at 2:30 p. m.

Claiming that he did not stop to ascertain what damage had been done, D. D. Williams yesterday afternoon brought Charles L. Bell, 1209 East Maple avenue, to police headquarters. Williams stated that after a machine driven by Bell had struck a car owned by M. G. Khodisa, which was parked in front of the residence at 1101 East Colorado street, he kept on going. Bell will come up for hearing today.

EPINARD TO RACE U. S. TURF STARS

French Crack to Show Speed Against America's Best in Fall Meetings

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, March 29.—Definite, final and binding arrangements, void only in the event that the horse breaks a careless leg or something equally drastic, have been made, it was learned today, for the campaign of Epinaud, the French Man-o-War, on American tracks next fall. The agreement came only after months of negotiation between August Belmont of the Westchester Racing association; James Shevlin of the Queens County Jockey club; Colonel Matt J. Winn, of the Kentucky Jockey club, and Pierre Wertheimer, owner of the horse.

It was the latter's answer to the proposal for a series between the best four years olds of the French and American turf seasons, but on this side of the water the silence has become oppressive. Harry Sinclair was to have shipped Zev and Grey Lag for a series of races abroad but it is generally admitted now that Harry will do nothing of the kind.

Waits for Epinaud
He will sit back comfortably with a hand full of aces and let Zev get into condition for the Epinaud meeting without getting any nearer to England than Jamaica, L. I.

The arrangements made call for the first of the series to take place at Belmont park in September. It will be over a journey of three-quarters of a mile with an added value of $25,000. The next race will be at Aqueduct over the mile distance with $25,000 added. This also will take place in September. The scene then shifts to Latonia where, with $30,000 added, they will try conclusions at a mile and a quarter. The field in all three events will be open to three year olds and upwards on a weight for age basis.

OXY TRACT TEAM TRIMS GRIZZLIES

Pipal's Squad Piles Up Score Of 110 to 30 In Meet On Tiger Field

The Occidental varsity track team romped away with a 110 to 30 victory over the Southern Branch yesterday on the Tiger track. Coach Pipal's warriors swooped down upon the Grizzlies unexpectedly and copped first in all the events except the shot, and made a clean sweep in the century, 220-yard dash, half mile, and low hurdles.

The records for most of the events were considerably slower than the Oxy team is capable of making, but the star runners lagged back in order to give the others an opportunity to place and win the block "O."

Meet Called Off
The Hollywood vs. Occidental freshmen track meet, which was scheduled to be run off immediately after the varsity events, was canceled. Due to some misunderstanding the S. B. U. C. coach did not want to have a conference meet with the Foothillers on the field at the same time.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

Glendale Theatre patrons are enjoying a real treat this week-end in the vaudeville offering, John Gano, noted as the singing miner, being starred in a song cycle. Viola Allen assists at the piano.

The Musical Rowleys are close competitors for first honors on the bill with a novelty number, running from tunes on Little wooden whistles to the pounding out of music on the xylophone. White and White are real screams in colored comedy while the Little sisters sing and dance divinely. The Fitzgerald duo offer something new in the way of athletic stunts, jumping barrels like human kangaroos.

In film a story of the Texas border is told with Roy Stewart starring in "Pure Grit." He is ably supported by Esther Ralston, a former Glendale girl.

THE GATEWAY

"Through the Dark" finishes its run at the Gateway Theatre today, where it has thrilled audiences by its fast action and intensely human characterizations. It is a "Boston Blackie" story, by Jack Boyle, produced by Cosmo-politan and featuring Colleen Moore.

There are thrills aplenty in "Through the Dark." Probably never before has such a touch of realism been brought to the screen as that wherein Travel, the pal of Blackie, mortally wounded, spends his last few minutes on earth holding the police at bay, thus enabling Blackie and the girl to make a successful escape.

The cast supporting Miss Moore includes Forrest Stanley, Eddie Phillips, George Cooper, Margaret Seddon, Carmelita Gersaghy, Wade Boteler, Hobart Bosworth and Kate Lester.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFERS INCREASE

Purchase of Documentary Stamps for First Two Months Breaks Record

Real estate transfers in Southern California reached the highest mark in the history of the sixth California district during January and February, according to a report in the sales of documentary stamps which was furnished to Washington by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex B. Goodcell.

January sales were the greatest of any month since the local internal revenue bureau was established, while the February receipts, slightly less, exceeded any other month except January.

Real Estate Transfers
The sales of stamps in January indicated that real estate transfers for that month were $136,326,900 and those for February $136,192,210.

For the first eight months of the fiscal year which began July 1, the sales of stamps represented total real estate transfers of $843,854,290.

Collector Goodcell pointed out that the record-breaking sales of stamps for the first two months of the calendar year 1924 showed that the new year was starting off with a tremendous increase in real estate activity and indicated that the total real estate transfers for 1924 would reach the $1,500,000,000 mark.

"People do not buy documentary stamps to frame. They buy them to use. That is why the sale of these stamps is a real barometer of real estate activity," said Collector Goodcell.

"The figures given on transfers are less, rather than greater, than the actual transactions because of the fact that in many cases the proper amount of stamps is not affixed to deeds. Investigations of these violations of the law are being made, however, and where the stamps called for by law are not affixed, heavy penalties will be imposed."

Federal Reports Reveal Property Tax Increase

Complete official figures made public this week by the United States Bureau of the Census giving totals of property valuations and of tax levies for 1922 and comparing them with totals for 1912 confirm predictions of tax tendencies made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards based on incomplete official reports and compilations from other sources.

Total levies of general property taxes over the country have increased 160 per cent in the ten year period, the census figures establish. At the same time the assessed value of the property on which these taxes are levied has increased only 79 per cent. And this 79 per cent is to be discounted, the association points out, because of the fact, noted in the Census Bureau report, that in some states the basis of assessment has been changed. The movement to put assessments on a 100 per cent basis of property values accounts in part for the large increase in property valuation shown, the bureau is careful to state. The figures as to taxes levied are not subject to modification, however. They are totals for each state of actual taxes paid. And they show irrefutably that these taxes, resting largely on real estate in each community, have increased more than twice as fast as has property valuation in the past ten years.

For every man, woman and child in the United States there was in 1922 an average tax paid on "general property" amounting to $32.22, the official figures state. This includes taxes levied for state governments, counties, cities, towns, villages, school districts, drainage districts, and all other civil divisions having the power to levy taxes. These taxes, 60 to 80 per cent of which are borne in each community by real estate, reached a total for the nation of $3,502,941,000. In 1912 the average of the general tax levy per capita was $13.91, and the total for the United States was $1,349,841,000.

The average rate per $100 of assessed valuation for all civil divisions from the state down has gone up from $1.04 in 1912 to $2.81 in 1922.

Total assessed valuation for the United States of all property subject to general property taxes was $124,616,000,000 in 1922, an average for each person of $1,146.16. In 1912 this total was $69,452,936,000. This represents an average for each person of $715.48.

Realtor Handles All Land Deals for City

Honor of being the first American city to recognize the value of having a skilled realtor in charge of its affairs involving real estate transactions is claimed by Milwaukee, where an ordinance enabling the city to secure in its purchases the same skilled service which is obtained by large private operators in real estate has been in operation dating from January 1, 1922.

Edward Grieb, first realtor to be retained by an American municipality, is an active member of the Milwaukee real estate board.

In a large majority of cases where American municipalities acquire real estate by purchase the price is an exorbitant one. Under the Milwaukee plan, as reported to the National Association of Real Estate Boards, terms secured and recommended by the city real estate agent must be approved by the public lands commission and the common council.

General public approval of the plan as it is operating is indicated in the expansion of the city realtor force to a staff of three men.

The Detroit city council has requested the corporation counsel to draw up an ordinance creating a real estate director for that city. The director would keep an accurate check on all property acquired or to be acquired by the city. In him, it is proposed, would be centralized a responsibility for city property now supervised by the city plan commission, city treasurer, controller, assessors and engineer, together with that held by various city departments.

ASK C. C. TO ASSIST IN CAMPAIGN

'Better Homes In America' Is Seeking Assistance Of Civic Bodies

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce and other local bodies have been invited to co-operate, in conjunction with every Chamber of Commerce in the United States, in the Better Homes in America movement. The help and interest of the local chamber has been sought in a personal letter sent out by James Ford, executive director.

Better Homes in America, now organized on a permanent and purely non-commercial basis, in its campaigns in the last two years has received much help from Chambers of Commerce in the many hundreds of communities where better homes have been demonstrated. An organized effort is now being made to reach every one of the 25,000,000 American families in the United States to help them make their homes more comfortable, more beautiful and easier and cheaper to manage and maintain. For this reason every local Chamber of Commerce in America is urged to put its shoulder to the wheel for this important work.

Campaign Successful

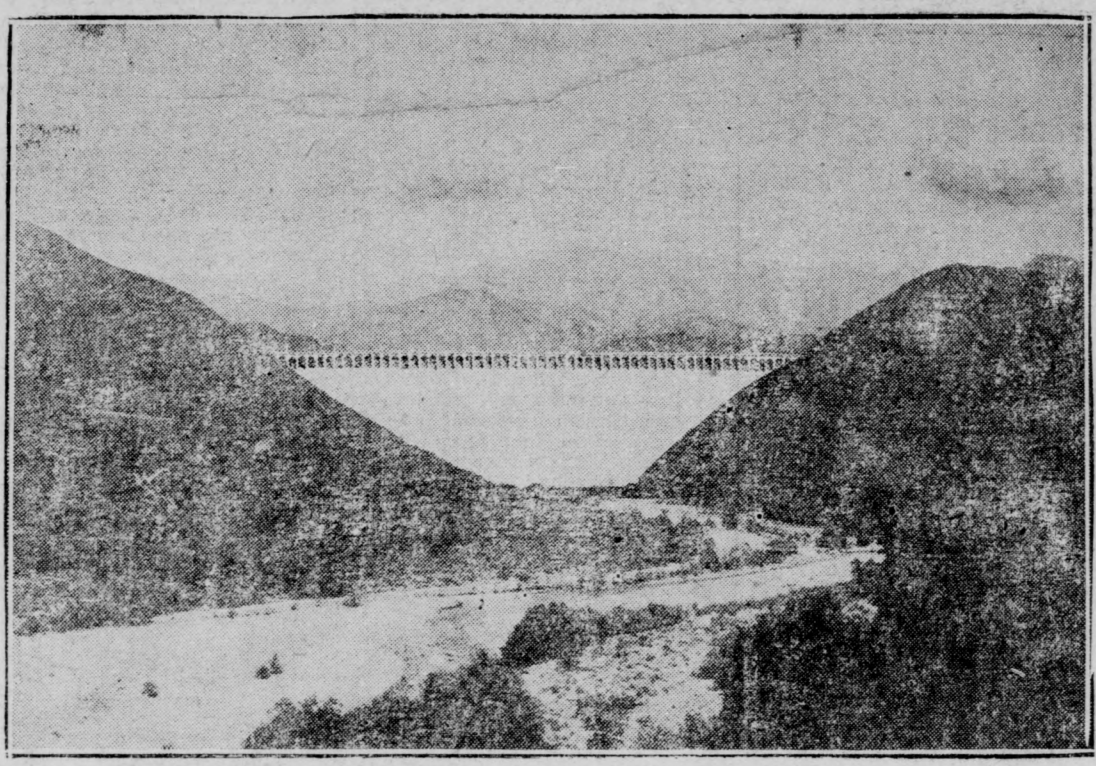

The letter follows: "Better Homes in America" has been organized on a permanent basis as a public service organization and has been incorporated under the laws of the state of Delaware.

"In 1923 the Better Homes campaign was successful in every state, and nearly twice as many communities as in 1922 conducted demonstrations. In each state in the Union, small villages and rural communities, as well as large cities, held demonstrations. The total attendance amounted to more than 2,000,000 people.

"I believe the local Chambers of Commerce have in this movement a unique opportunity to elevate the whole plane of our home life," Herbert Hoover stated in a letter to Elliot H. Goreau, vice-president of the Chamber of Com-

Great Dam For L. A. County

SITE OF NEW DAM—The Los Angeles county proposed dam in the San Gabriel mountains which will impound more than seventy-eight billion gallons of water for domestic and farming use within the county. The project is included in the water conservation and flood control bonds which are to be voted upon May 6 next. This dam will replenish underground reservoirs between the mountains and the sea, safeguarding the future growth of our cities and rural districts. More than 240,000 acre feet of water can be stored twice each year.

Ask Conference Over Homeseekers' Rates

Addressing one hundred officials of the railroads making up the Southern Passenger Association, the National Association of Real Estate Boards in letters sent out this week calls on the Southeastern Passenger Association and on its individual members to take a position as to whether they will grant a conference with the Homeseekers' Rate Committee of the realtors' association on points which it is protesting in regard to the conditions which the roads have attached in the proposed restoration of homeseekers' rates in the southeast territory. Stand of the realtor body against abridgement in the proposed rate offer has been actively supported by civic bodies and by local and state officials throughout the South.

concluded at Augusta, Ga., declare:

First—That the homeseeker should have the privilege of purchasing tickets to any point within the state to which he desires to go to look over the farming and agricultural opportunities.

Second—That party tickets for five or more traveling on the same ticket are impracticable for homeseekers for the reason that it is almost impossible for any one homeseeker to secure four others of the same mind to travel on the same train at the same time to the same point in the same state and to agree upon returning on the same day on the same train and to stop off en route at the same points.

Third—That homeseekers' rates tickets should be placed on sale on the first and third Tuesdays of each month during the year. Under the restrictions protested the railroads of the Southeast have agreed to restore homeseekers' rates in that territory, commencing April 1 and continuing until September 30, 1924.

Low Settlers' Rate For Valley Announced

Announcement was made by the Southern Pacific railroad at the El Centro Farm Lands conference of the California Real Estate Association, that lower rates to farming districts in the Imperial, San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys would be made. It will be known as a settler's excursion fare and will enable visiting farm lands realtors and farmers to see the great back country of California. This announcement was given out by Fred E. Watson, general passenger agent of Los Angeles, who addressed the conference. The Southern Pacific also proposes a special rate to California for the eastern farmer and real estate colonization agent, charging the one way fare plus $5 for the round trip. This ticket is to be on sale in the winter season. Low rates also prevail during the summer months.

ADVERTISING WILL COST $200,000

All Year Club of Southern California to Tell of District's Charm

Southern California will "say it with dollars" this summer to the folks back east, $200,000 being the appropriation for national advertising between January 1 and July 1, 1924, most of which will be spent during May and June, according to C. G. Milham, executive secretary of the All-Year club of Southern California.

Fourteen national magazines are now carrying the club's copy, Mr. Milham states, and during May and June more than sixty metropolitan newspapers in the middle west, south and east will carry similar advertising in behalf of Southern California.

One Ad to Cost $14,000
The sum of $14,000 will be spent on a single insertion in the most widely read national weekly, appearing as a double-page spread in the issue of April 26. This giant advertisement will reach a guaranteed circulation of over 2,300,000 copies, which, at the estimate of five readers to a copy, yields the tremendous total of over 11,000,000 people who will read this invitation to come to Southern California in the summer time.

Viewed from this angle, the sum of $14,000 is seen to be at a rate of about a thousandth of a cent per person, which is infinitesimally small compared with the cost of a direct mail campaign, such as is frequently conducted in the advertisement of a city or a section.

During the past three years, the All-Year club of Southern California has spent over $500,000 in telling the world the facts about this section, why it is not only the world's greatest playground, but the country's greatest.

17,671 Licenses Issued to Brokers and Salesmen in One Month

The State Real Estate Department during the month of January issued 17,671 real estate licenses for brokers and salesmen in California, and collected $110,703.75 in taxes.

The licenses issued for January were classified as follows:
Broker licenses ..... 7897
Copartnerships ..... 1131
Member copartnerships ..... 1137
Corporations ..... 216
Officer corporations ..... 7121
Salesmen ..... 17,671

In reply to an inquiry from the California Real Estate association, State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser gave his personal views concerning the questionnaire, now required by law before permits are issued to real estate dealers. As a direct result of the questionnaire, he said, schools are now being conducted in nearly all cities where there are real estate boards and earnest study is being given to real estate law and ethics.

Its primary purpose is to aid the real estate department in determining the qualifications of the applicant to engage in the real estate business, but it is found also to have a direct bearing on better business methods and security to clients.

DROWSY VILLAGE GROWS INTO CITY

the village of Glendale at that time. Mostly vacant lots with the buildings few and far between. And the people built their homes where the scenery was the most alluring and not because it was much cheaper in one place than it was in another.

And on this particular day, Old Ben, the hermit, sat there at the corner as usual, gazing around him sleepily and with little interest in the doings of the day.

Strangers Hit Town
A little ways up the street the "ticker" in the telegraph office snapped its mysterious message through the calm serenity of the atmosphere, which resembled strangely the noise of the cricket at twilight. Suddenly a lone street car appeared from the south, coming north on Brand and finally came to a stop in front of the P. E. station. The constable awakened and rubbed his eyes and stared with an official suspicion at a couple of strangers that alighted from the car carrying suitcases and the constable's expression denoted a wonderment as to what business these intruders might have in this quiet and peaceful village of Glendale. But the old hermit was not interested in the strangers nor the constable.

A little ways south of Broadway on Brand, Old Ben had suddenly noticed a group of the villagers, a dozen or so, gathered around a man who was mounted on a box and who was waving his arms in the air and apparently shouting and gesticulating in a wild manner. Old Ben, with his faithful canine at his heels, started slowly down the street for this scene of excitement.

A little later he drew close to this crowd and he looked and listened for a few minutes. Smiles of contempt, derision and indifference appeared on the faces of the spectators.

Tries To Sell Lot

"What," finally ventured the hermit, "is this wild man talking about?" "Oh nothing much," was the reply, "he's only one of them big city auctioneers tryin' to sell this here corner lot for a thousand dollars, but I guess nobody in these parts is crazy enough to give that much for it, cause this town won't ever amount to nothin'." And then the crowd gradually dwindled away until at last the auctioneer gave it up in disgust and he also disappeared.

Later in the afternoon, as a beautiful sunset illuminated the western sky, Old Ben, with his dog at his heels, shuffled slowly toward the Verdugo hills. When he reached the old Casa de Verdugo he stopped to rest a moment in the shade.

In this region in those days a little colony of Spanish people lived on the profits of their vineyards and these same people knew how to make wonderful grapejuice. While Old Ben rested in the shade, a charming dark eyed senorita came out of the Casa and she approached the old hermit with a cup in her hand. She gave it to him to drink. Old Ben drank and smacked his lips and he gazed at the Spanish maiden with an expression of gratitude in his eyes. Old Ben had never drunk of this wonderful grapejuice before. Suddenly he took some money from his pocket and he spoke to the girl and she turned and went into the Casa and soon she returned with a little jug full of the grapejuice and she handed it to him and the hermit gave her the money. Then once more he shuffled towards home—to his cave in the Verdugo hills. After a long climb into the hills he arrived at last at the concealed entrance of his cave. Glancing around for a moment to see if he were being observed, Old Ben suddenly parted a thick growth of bushes, revealing for an instant a small room dug from the side of the mountain. He then slipped quickly through the opening, the dog followed, the bushes closed again behind them and Old Ben and his dog were at home.

Counts Store of Coins

The hermit placed his jug of grapejuice on the floor and lit a little kerosene lamp that hung on the wall. In one corner of the cave was a narrow cot covered with blankets. On the floor was an iron kettle, a few dishes and pans and other odds and ends. From the kettle he tossed a few pieces of meat to the dog and then proceeded to prepare his own evening meal. A little later he sat on the edge of his cot with the little jug in his hands gazing at it with an odd smile on his face. For a long time he sat there thinking—thinking of many things. Finally he rose to his feet, stepped across the narrow room and slipped his fingers in a crevice between the rocks and drew out a bag of money. He poured the contents of the bag out onto the floor, a great pile of gold coins. Again he smiled. He could buy that land and still have some money left, he soliloquized. His money would be safer tied up in real estate than it would be here in the cave. Some day some bandit might rob him of it all and—

Old Ben gazed thoughtfully at his pile of gold which represented the reward of hard toil of other years when he had panned the California mountain streams for the shining metal. With the firm resolution to go to the village and buy that corner lot on the following day, he hid the money away again and returned to his cot and his jug of grapejuice. The sun had set in the west. The shadows of evening had fallen. It was night in the Verdugo hills. All was quiet on the interior of the cave. Suddenly, somewhere in the hills, a lone wolf howled its defiance at the moon. The dog in the cave bristled and growled, but his master heard nothing. Old Ben, the hermit, was sound asleep on his cot and on the floor beside him lay the little jug, drained of its contents—that wonderful Verdugo grapejuice.

Old Ben Wakes Up

It was at a late hour in the morning of a beautiful day when Old Ben awakened. The old hermit sat on the edge of his cot and stared dumbly at a streak of sunshine that pierced the thick foliage which concealed the entrance of his humble domain. His mouth felt dry and parched, his face burned, his head ached and his brain was not clear. Somehow he felt terribly weak and tired and he bowed his head in his hands and his eyes closed and for a long time he sat there lost in meditation. Raising his head at last, his eyes rested upon the little empty jug that lay on the floor of his cave. Then his brain began to work and one by one he recalled the incidents of the day before. He remembered the man who had failed to sell that corner lot for a thousand dollars, he remembered his long walk from the village, the Spanish maiden, the jug of grapejuice, the arrival of the street car, how he had counted his money, how he had planned to buy that corner lot on this day, how he had drunk the contents of the little jug and—now the awakening. For the first time the hermit noticed that his dog was gone. Out to hunt a rabbit, no doubt, it didn't matter. He would come back.

Old Ben was already dressed. He had gone to sleep with his clothes on. Then recalling his decision of the night before to buy that piece of land, he stepped across the narrow cave, took the bag of gold from its hiding place and placed it in his pocket. Then he shoved his way through the thick brush and he stood out in the open air.

For a moment he blinked his eyes in the dazzling sunlight. His vision becoming clearer, he gazed down into the valley toward the village of Glendale. And then, on the old hermit's face, there appeared a puzzled expression. He brushed his eyes with his hand as if to wipe away an illusion and again he looked and stared in wonder, with his eyes and his mouth wide open in blank astonishment.

Thinks It Mirage
Old Ben suddenly laughed foolishly. And he refused to believe his eyes for an instant. He had seen many a mirage on the desert in his day. No, it was not a reality, that scene that lay before him. Such a thing was impossible. He was just having a beautiful dream or maybe he was just plain drunk. That Verdugo grapejuice that he had drunk the night before was to blame for this optical illusion. Again he looked down into the valley and then he leaned back against a rock and closed his eyes and tried to obliterate from his mind, this queer hallucination. And then as he stood there with his eyes closed, the truth—the terrible truth—dawned upon him. He realized it all now. He recalled a fairy story of his childhood days, the story of Rip Van Winkle who had spent ten nights in the bar room or whatever it was. Old Ben wasn't quite sure. But he knew now that he had been asleep there in his cave for many days, even months—yes, no doubt for years.

From his position up there on the mountain side, Old Ben had a bird's eye view of the city of Glendale as it is today. Instead of gazing a couple of miles to the south at the village of Glendale, as had been his daily custom, he discovered a point in the south that was beyond his vision. Thousands of little bungalows, beautiful homes and palatial residences were laid out in a systematic arrangement. Green lawns, flower gardens and long rows of shade and fruit trees blended artistically with the enchanting scene. A city laid out as perfect and complete as if a fairy had waved her magic wand over this valley and had created this great transformation in a single night. A wonderful city today, where only yesterday there existed a lone-some country village.

City Is Changed
At last the hermit started down the trail towards the city and finally he reached the north end of Brand boulevard. As he plodded south on Brand his astonishment increased at every step. And when he finally reached the business district on north Brand, he stood and stared around him in speechless wonder. Hundreds of new and mammoth buildings graced those vacant lots of yesterday—that he remembered so well. Truly it seemed as if this great transformation had taken place just over night. The houses and stores all looked so new and clean.

Like a child in wonderland, Old Ben wandered around through the business district. He saw many fine buildings, beauty parlors, shops for milady, big department stores, countless auto agencies and real estate offices and many other commodities offered for sale that man could possibly need or could wish for. And over on West Broadway, he found the Horseshoe Club and he stood around awhile and scrutinized the faces of the men that he found there, hoping to see one that was familiar to him. But no, he recognized none of them. Then he wandered back to Brand and Broadway. There, where the old P. E. station used to stand, he found a magnificent six story building. Brand boulevard still looked like hard times, but today it was only the "hard times" that people had in getting through the traffic. There in the street a traffic cop with a handsome uniform on his manly form and a smile of leniency on his face, waved his arms in the air like a lover waving to his sweetheart. Autos to the right of him, autos to the left of him and many more circling around him like children around a May pole. Trains on the P. E. rolling, packed to capacity with people going somewhere or coming back.

And, strange to say, the thousands of people of this wonderful city did not seem to rush and scramble for an existence. It didn't seem to Ben that it was like the struggle and strife of life in a big city. But they were the gay throngs, all busy, nodding, smiling, selling, buying, with the bustling interest in a thriving community where to merely live seemed a pleasure.

And over on East Broadway he found men breaking ground for a new post office. And he heard men discussing the "new hotel" that was to be built soon and he heard others speak of the "Birth of a Nation" on the Southern Pacific and that it was one of the finest in the state.

Everywhere, vacant lots seemed to be as scarce as horse drawn vehicles.

A little later, Old Ben wandered south on Brand and a little ways south of Broadway, he found at last one sight that was familiar to him. It was that corner lot that the auctioneer had failed to sell for a thousand dollars. And the lot was still vacant. Near by, Old Ben noticed a real estate office and in the open door way a man was sitting in a chair. With a question already formed on his lips, he approached the real estate office and he stopped before the man in the door way.

Doffing his ragged hat Old Ben inquired: "Say, Pard, has that there corner lot over there been sold yet?" The man in the chair eyed Old Ben curiously for a moment and then replied, "No, it is still for sale."

"And how much is it today?" inquired Old Ben eagerly as his fingers closed on the bag of gold in his pocket.

Blames Grapejuice
"Forty thousand dollars," replied the real estate man with a smile of friendly tolerance on his face. Old Ben had heard, but he made no reply. For a moment he felt as dazed as if the man had struck him a blow in the face. On the wall on the inside of the office, there hung a calendar. Old Ben's eyes were riveted upon it. March 1924 was what he read. It was all clear to the old hermit now. He knew now just how many years he had been asleep up there in his cave in the Verdugo Hills. And he felt that the grapejuice was to blame for it all.

The hermit had nothing more to say. He turned and shuffled slowly towards Brand and Broadway, shaking his head and muttering to himself that gold or something must have been discovered in these parts. Because what seemed to puzzle him the most was—how that little humble village of Glendale of "yesterday" could have grown in such a few years (as years are sometimes counted) to the great and wonderful city that it was today.

And a few minutes later, as he reached the corner of Brand and Broadway, Old Ben, the hermit was soon lost from view—swallowed up in the traffic at the busiest corner of the Fastest Growing City in America.

Report of Committee On Education Ready

After many weeks of concentrated efforts the state educational committee of the California Real Estate association is mailing to each realty board in the state of California the educational program with instructions as to the method of procedure in organizing educational classes which are to be conducted in cooperation with the University of Southern California, which university has assisted in working out a very complete course in real estate education.

It is the intention of the educational committee, of which Harrison Lewis is chairman, and which composes a number of the representative realtors in the state of California, to do everything in its power to make these educational courses the most outstanding accomplishment of the work of the California Real Estate association.

It is going to be necessary for every member of the state association to get in behind and help to make this educational work a big success and President Henry Barbour earnestly requests every member to realize that "this is his association and his effort to improve the real estate profession and it behooves every man who is a member of this association to realize the wonderful opportunity which we have of placing the real estate profession on the same plane as other recognized professions."

Kentucky Passes Law To License Realtors

A real estate license bill, following the lines advocated by the National Association of Real Estate boards, for public protection against unscrupulous real estate dealers, has passed both houses of the Kentucky legislature and is now before the governor for signature.

With the enactment of the law Kentucky will become the second state within two weeks to provide state license for real estate dealing, and the eighteenth state to adopt such legislation. The Virginia legislature passed a real estate license bill March 9, following the provisions of the McChesney model license law worked out by the National Association of Real Estate boards. Similar legislation is being formed in a number of states.

The Kentucky license requirement applies only to cities of the first and second classes. The bill had the strong backing of the Kentucky Real Estate association and of local real estate boards.

Ideal Home Sites Found In Scenic Subdivision Lying North Of Glendale

The wonders of the hills, of owning a home that is snug-gled into the very heart of the quiet canyons, or "out in the open" on one of the many knolls for which the foothills of Southern California are noted, may all be enjoyed by the man who owns a homesite in Glendale Highlands, that wonderful scenic home subdivision lying in the extreme northern portion of Glendale, says T. W. Watson, realtor.

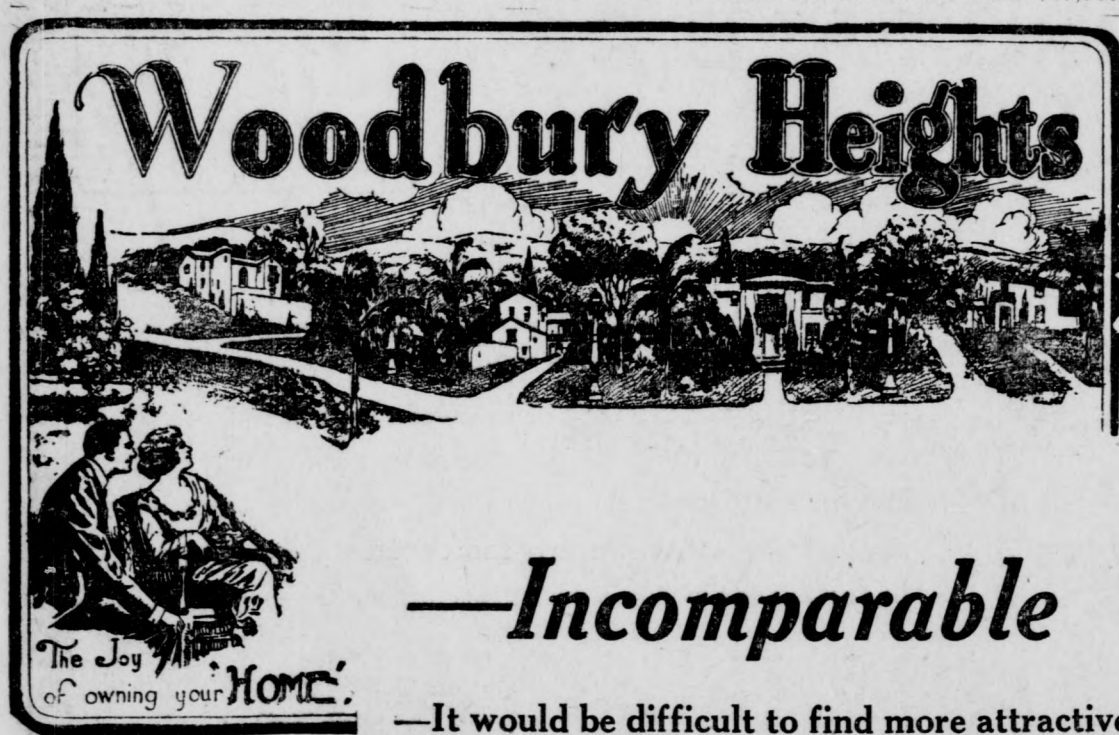

Surely this tract is ideally situated. It has everything the home owner could possibly desire. If you are looking for scenery, you will find it in abundance in Glendale Highlands. If you want a quiet home location, you will find that, also, and if you are in search of exclusiveness, proximity to things that really count, or the site that is "different," you need search no further for you will find all of them in this wonderful subdivision.

That this fact is being realized by men who are satisfied with nothing but the best is evidenced by the well-known residents of Glendale and elsewhere who have purchased lots there. All of these purchasers are men who have had ample opportunity of looking into the values and merits of the various tracts that have been put on in this section during the past few months. They have looked them all over, and their last word has been, "Glendale Highlands."

Some Who Have Bought
Just look these purchasers over. For instance, there is A. R. Eastman, 709 North Louise street, president of the Glendale State bank, who has purchased one of the best lots in the tract. Then there is C. W. Ingledue, 301 West Wilson who is in the real estate business here and knows where real value and merit exist. Another purchaser is Miss Myrtle Baldwin, 228 West Doran, and one of the largest property owners in Glendale. Miss Baldwin, it is understood, will erect her future home in this tract.

C. H. Crawford, manager of the Vickers estate, 1319 North Central avenue, has also secured a homesite in Glendale Highlands. Mr. Crawford knows values "in these parts" and selected this tract after seeing all the others. A. B. Clapp, retired, of 225 West Burchett street, who is well acquainted with the various home locations of Glendale, is possessor of one of the Glendale Highlands homesites. He will build soon, it is understood. Mrs. Emily Jones Hewlett of Salt Lake City, has also purchased a lot in this tract, while C. G. Dwight, owner of the property has reserved one of the best lots in the tract for his own use. He will erect thereon a real mansion and will make Glendale his winter home.

Little Mansions
By consideration of these purchasers it will be seen that those occupying the tract will be in keeping with the wonderful homeplace itself. All of the homes in this tract will be above the ordinary. They will all be "little mansions" in the truest sense of the word and each home is

BEAUTY SEEN IN FOOTHILL SITE

Sunset Hills Tract Blooms With Vegetation After Recent Rainfall

Now that the rain has clarified the atmosphere and given life to the thirsty vegetation, the hills and valleys of Glendale are more beautiful than ever, especially when viewed from the heights of Sunset Hills, the subdivision with the highest level lots in Glendale.

A few of the choicest homesites of this most attractive foothill property are still available at original prices and anyone wishing a site for a future home in the most desirable foothill section of Glendale cannot afford to overlook this property, located on the north side of Mountain street, three blocks west of Brand's Castle.

One of Glendale's prominent citizens, J. H. Randall, of the City Planning Commission, recently purchased a lot on Mountain street and will immediately erect a very artistic $10,000 home there.

This additional improvement will enhance the value of every surrounding lot.

Many Improvements
The high class street improvements of this tract, which include ornamental lights on three streets every 100 feet apart, together with the restrictions ranging from $6000 to $10,000, insure a district that anyone will be proud to own a homesite in.

The present prices are 25 per cent below that which surrounding properties are selling at, so that from every angle Sunset Hills offers the finest opportunity for investor and homeseeker alike, of any property now on the market. This class of property will never be any cheaper, and as it is limited, local people are urged to visit the tract before all the lots are snapped up by outsiders. There is a representative of Hayward and McCartney on the tract all the time.

WILL BOOST FOREST
Stamps to the number of 250,000 will be printed and distributed by the Pueblo Real Estate Exchange to bring to public attention the San Isabel forest, a report to the National Association of Real Estate Boards states. The stickers carry a miniature picture of the forest.

unit six homes, in addition to the four that are already built, will shortly be completed, ranging in price around $5000.

During the past week Twining & Myers have paved the way to the erection of two handsome homes in Verdugo Woodlands by the sale of two large home sites to buyers who contemplate the immediate erection of homes that will cost, in one instance, $25,000, and in the other $15,000.

Surprises Await All Who Inspect Woodbury Heights For Place To Build Home

"Home lovers, upon visiting Woodbury Heights, that beautiful subdivision lying in the northeasterly section of Glendale, are agreeably surprised to find that everything is ready at this time in that tract for the construction of dwellings," said T. W. Watson, subdivider of the tract. "All they have to do is to order the material and start the construction work."

"Water for the construction of the home and for domestic use after the dwelling has been finished, has been piped along every street of the tract and all the owner needs to do is order the connection made. For weeks the pipe laying crew has been rushing the work of water pipe laying on this tract. Nothing was permitted to interrupt the work. And now the laying of the mains is finished, in plenty of time for the number of beautiful homes there now and that will soon be built."

Gas In Soon
"Gas, also, will be on the tract within ninety days. The larger mains of the gas company are now at the edge of the tract ready for connection. Arrangements have been completed with the gas company for the installation of the mains to all sections of Woodbury Heights. This work will be started within a day or so, and after being commenced will be rushed to completion. Electricity and telephones also are available.

"Not the least of the charms of this tract are the streets that will be laid therein. Already these streets have been graded and the laying of the three inches of macadam is waiting only for the completion of the public utilities. Another unusual feature that is also included in the prices that are being asked for these lots is a modern trunking electrical system. These lights will be modern in the extreme and all wires used in connection with this system will be run underground.

Charming Scenery
"With all these improvements going in, is it any wonder that Woodbury Heights lots are being snapped up while some of those on the low, level lots—down on the flats—are being neglected?"

"Woodbury Heights has other charms that make a strong bid for the favor of the man who is searching for a place to locate his permanent home. In the first place it has scenery, in fact, it reveals in this particular commodity. It overlooks Eagle Rock, Glendale, Burbank, and the country beyond these various places, while on a clear day the Pacific ocean and Catalina are visible."

Taxes Contribute to Home Shortage, Claim
One-sixth of all money received by landlords for rent is being turned over to the city government in taxes under the present local tax situation in New York City, according to findings of an investigation by the Merchants' Association of New York. Findings of the investigation which will be significant in other cities where real estate boards under the leadership of the National Association of Real Estate boards are carrying on campaigns for reduction of the local as well as the national tax burden.

State and national taxes have been a large contributing factor in the housing shortage, Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Merchants' Association asserts on the face of facts brought out by the investigation.

"Taxes on land have increased the cost of the property on which houses can be built," Mr. Pierson brings out. "Taxes on the lumberman, and on the brick manufacturer have increased the cost of the floors and walls. Taxes on steel and iron have increased the cost of the metal going into the house. Taxes on the manufacturer tiles have increased the cost of the roof. Taxes on the manufacturer of plumbing and electrical fixtures have increased the cost of the interior."

"And whether the man who occupies the house purchases it or rents it, he must pay not only for the actual labor and material in the building, but also for an invisible but expensive addition built out of government taxes."

Committees Plan for Realtors' Convention

National Vice President C. C. Tatum is chairman of the "On to Washington" committee of the Los Angeles Realty Board. The convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards on May 30. Former State President Fred E. Reed is chairman of the central division, and State President Henry P. Barbour is the state chairman, for the State Association train to Washington. It is planned to have all the boards of the state get together in grand state delegation to the national convention which opens the first week in June. Mr. Tatum is also chairman of the southern division for the State Association train.

CHECK PHONEY ADS
A committee of review has been appointed by the St. Louis Real Estate exchange to act on all cases of misleading advertising or newspaper items affecting real estate. The exchange reports to the National Association of Real Estate boards that it has devoted a fund to be used in a co-operative business movement to scotch such advertising and to establish public confidence in the statements of advertisers.

STATE WILL SEND 90 TO WASHINGTON

Reservations Have Been Made for Local Delegation

Ninety reservations have been made for the California delegation at the new Washington Hotel, according to a message received by President Henry P. Barbour from John A. Petty, secretary of the real estate board at Washington, D. C., where the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards will be held June 3-6, 1924.

This means that rooms will be provided in one hotel for a delegation of at least 90 Californians. Last year the California delegation consisted of 80 realtors and their wives.

"The California special train to Washington," President Barbour declared, "will leave for Washington about May 30, and we desire to have every one of our realty boards represented on that train. Reservations for train space and the hotel should be made now direct to the California Real Estate Association, 226 Merchants National Bank Building, Los Angeles."

Reservations In Advance Of Opening Sale Amount To Over Quarter Million

With $250,000 of pre-sale reservations already made and $31,500 worth of building permits taken out, Canzoneri (pronounced Kan-zo-nero) Square, Burbank, offers one of the most exceptional opportunities ever offered to the lot-buying public, according to Campbell & Hanna, subdividers, 204 East San Fernando boulevard, Burbank.

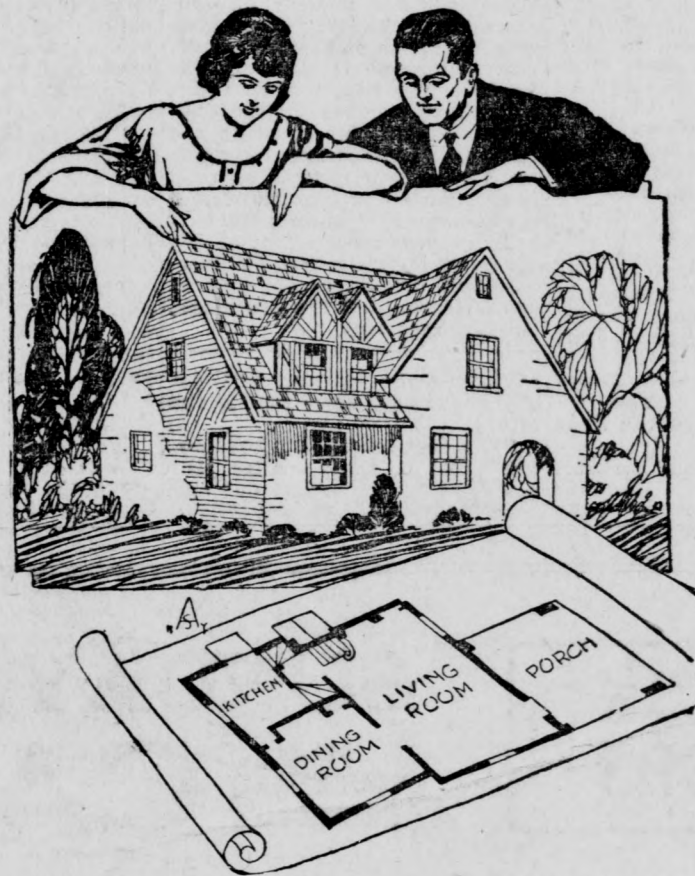

Located on high ground and commanding a view of the surrounding country from every point of the compass, Canzoneri Square is not only highly scenic but wonderfully healthy, its developers state. It is also very advantageously located with regard to important valley boulevards, they point out, being at the intersection of Buena Vista street and Sherman way, with business frontage available on both these vital thoroughfares, prices that are not only profit-making but fortune-making.

In Path of Progress
The firm of Campbell & Hanna also call attention to the fact that this tract lies directly in the path of the fast-marching development from Burbank to Lankershim. With this entire section of the San Fernando valley turning almost over night into one great industrial beehive, they feel that at prices of $995 and up, choice lots, literal gold mines are being offered the public—with this difference between lots at Canzoneri Square and gold mines, that it is not necessary to work the lots to make them produce the gold, all that is necessary being to hold them for a short time for the certain re-sale profits.

To help home-seekers to gain financial independence, the subdividers state that they will aid buyers in building their homes. Such property as this, whether residential lots or business frontage, is already rare and becoming rarer and the firm of Campbell & Hanna hold out to buyers what they feel to be one of the really outstanding opportunities of the year.

Verain, a plant found growing on Mount Calvary, was said to possess every sort of miraculous power of healing.

SPEED PROBLEMS PUZZLE JUSTICE

Best Plan for Dealing With Motor Law Violators
Sought by Lowe

turers and big interests will prevent it for a long time. Eventually, he believes, his plan will become a law.

In substance, it would provide the following:
First, embargo on all motor vehicles that can be driven at a speed in excess of thirty miles per hour.

Second, requiring a mental and physical test of all applicants for operators' licenses. Persons who are mentally or physically deficient would be refused permission to drive motor vehicles.

Potential Killers
"There are 200,000 persons driving automobiles in the state of California today who should not be permitted to sit behind a wheel," declared Judge Lowe vehemently. "They are the potential killers. They leave a trail of maimed and dead and will continue to do so until they are kept off the public highways."

Judge Lowe declared that 75 per cent of the automobile drivers in California are "safe and sane." The other 25 per cent are dangerous. To them, he says, a fine means little; a reprimand less. Jail sentences, under the proper conditions, may "help."

"I will not send a man to the county jail for breaking the speed laws unless the case is extremely aggravated," he declared. "The jail was originally built for 240 prisoners. Most of the time there are 500 to 600 held there. Conditions are deplorable. I have had men whom I sent there tell me some of their experiences. One man was forced to sleep between a negro and a Mexican in a small room that contained forty persons. He became covered with vermin and filth. I don't believe that is a proper place to send anybody unless the case is so serious that there is no other alternative possible."

Seeks Legislation
The judge said he has tried during two sessions of the legislature to have written into the laws of the state a provision requiring physical and mental examinations for applicants for drivers' licenses. His efforts have failed, he said. At the last session that requirement was incorporated in the original draft of the Breed Act, now the state motor vehicle law, but it was eliminated during committee sessions before it reached the floor of the assembly.

His other suggestion that all motor vehicles with a speed in excess of thirty miles per hour

Pre-Opening Tract Sales At Fairyland Scheduled For Sunday, Rain Or Shine

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

A special pre-opening sale, "rain or shine," is announced by Smith & Redman, 214 North Brand boulevard, for their beautiful Fairyland tract in northeast Glendale. Sunday, March 30, is the day, and every lot in the tract has been priced at a special low figure, for that day only, they state.

Fairyland is located along the $1,000,000 scenic drive that will connect Glendale with Pasadena, via Sycamore and Scholl canyons. It is reached by driving east on Broadway to Wilson avenue and turning north on Harvey avenue, where the arrows will guide the way, or by proceeding east on Sycamore Canyon road to Sierra avenue.

Charming Site
The location of the tract, Smith and Redman point out, is particularly charming, nestled in a veritable bowl in the hills, sheltered in winter and cool in summer, an enchanted spot far removed from the noise of the city proper, yet within three or four minutes by automobile from the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway, and convenient to cars, markets, schools and churches, in the heart have the course in shape for golf in record time.

Reservations are now being made for the regular dinner parties, reports Mr. Thorpe, and several large parties are scheduled for the next two weeks. There will be a dinner dance this evening, March 29, he states, with Rene's ten-piece orchestra furnishing the music.

Newport to Help
F. P. Newport of Verdugo Woodlands has offered his co-operation in building some six miles of bridge paths through the picturesque portions of the Verdugo Woodlands hills, which will afford members of the Oakmont Country club, through the Oakmont Saddle stables, of which Mr. Thorpe is proprietor, an even greater variety of beautiful drives than is offered at Beverly Hills.

Mr. Thorpe reports that he has gone over the trails with Mr. Newport and that crews are now at work clearing off the brush and building roadways.

of the rapidly developing northeast section, noted for its $600,000 Glendale Union Broadway High school, $1,000,000 new Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, Glendale academy and other landmarks.

Large, level homesites are offered here, at prices ranging from $950 to $2050, the agents state, paid improvements including paved streets, curbs, water, gas and electricity, on terms of 20 per cent down and the balance 2 per cent per month, including interest. Those who come out Sunday will find the lots specially priced at levels so low that scores of the choicest locations will be snapped up, while, according to the agents, there will be the greatest range of sites to select from, every lot offering a different and equally wonderful view.

Invite Everybody
Those who will phone Glendale 646, state Smith and Redman, will be taken to and from the tract by automobile. Those with their own cars are urged to come prepared to enjoy a delightful outing, as they will be greatly surprised at the beauty of Fairyland, a tract that is well named.

"We looked over everything in Glendale before deciding to offer Fairyland to the public," the agents state, "and are frank to state that we cannot find anything to remotely compare with it. Glendale is a city of homes and there are many beautiful sections, but Fairyland is more than just that. It is a tract with atmosphere, a charming, lovely spot, where large, level lots offer the home builder every opportunity, but where the environment has about it something of magic that is indescribable and that must be seen to be comprehended."

"We cordially invite the public to come out to Fairyland on Sunday and take advantage of our pre-opening sale to get an ideal homesite at a price that will never be possible again."

BLIND PUPIL AT HEAD OF CLASSES

Evolves Method Whereby He Outshines Those Who
See In College

CHICAGO, March 29.—Pedagogical theories, which have stood the test of centuries, stand threatened today by developments at Northwestern University.

A new era of education, in which the poring over text books by students may be eliminated and all orthodox methods of instruction abandoned, awaits only the result of psychological experiments which will determine the wherefore of the proficiency of Carl W. Bostrom, 21, author, psychology expert and blind student extraordinary, at Northwestern.

According to Bostrom's statements, he never crams for examinations—just mentally reviews his topics. He never takes notes on lectures and acquires all his knowledge by merely listening. Diagrams drawn by professors to illustrate their lectures he "sees" by the mental image brought to his mind by the faint noise made by the chalk scraping on the blackboard. Generally he is able to interpret the diagrams more readily than the students who actually see them.

Leads All Students
Records at Northwestern show Bostrom above the average mental calibre of scholastic proficiency. He takes more courses than the average student and obtains better grades.

"I would have to expend as much mental energy on my college studies as the average student," Bostrom explains, "if I did not know how to manage my memory and powers of concentration to the best advantage. In the mind facts and names are interrelated and do not stand as so many isolated items. The result is not attained merely by concentration, but primarily by rearrangement of the new knowledge gained in accordance with what I have learned in the past. This method, based on a sound scientific principle analyzed by myself, will undoubtedly be of great value to me in my proposed journalistic career."

It is possible, Northwestern professors believe, that the principles used by Bostrom can be applied generally to teaching. They are conducting a series of experiments to obtain data on the matter before attempting to introduce any of it.

Professor Shows Business
Is Broken by Poor
Personality

EUGENE, Ore., March 29.—Personality of a salesman counts more than prices in making or breaking a business, according to Prof. Frank A. Nagley of the University of Oregon faculty.

Nagley has completed an extensive survey to determine the reasons why customers change their trade from one store to another.

His findings were compiled from questionnaires returned by 4408 patrons of 1483 different retail stores.

They showed that indifference of salespeople, haughtiness and overinsistence on their part caused 22 per cent of the dissatisfaction of patrons who changed their trade. High prices accounted for 14 per cent. Causes for making a change in patronage, as the returns showed, are listed below:

Victim of Accident Treated at Hospital

Harvey Singleton, 1429 Sycamore Canyon drive, was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital this morning, suffering from injuries received in an accident at the Merritt Sash and Door Co. Mr. Singleton's chest was crushed and it was at first thought his injuries were of a very serious nature, but an X-ray examination at the hospital proved that such was not the case. He is reported as being in a satisfactory condition.

Barnes Wild Animal Shows Give Two Performances On Glendale Lot

Today is circus day in Glendale! Early this morning the Al G. Barnes circus began unloading from their private trains on the Southern Pacific track and, as if by magic, a tented city appeared on the circus lot at San Fernando road and Park avenue, next to the ball park.

All the kids who have been mowing the lawn and sweeping the porches so industriously for the past few weeks are standing around getting an inkling of the good things that were to be offered this afternoon and evening.

Parade City Streets
Shortly after 11 o'clock this morning the large street parade, without which no circus is complete, wound its way through the principal streets of Glendale, headed by the circus band playing airs which recalled boyhood and girlhood days to all of the older people, and closed with the familiar hoots and toots of the steam calliope.

Elks Are Hosts at Season's Last Dance

Glendale Elks were hosts last night at the last dance of the season and it proved to be a most delightful affair for the 100 couples attending. Al Cawood was chairman and during the evening introduced various specialty numbers.

Robert Gutekunst, assisted by Miss Bernice Blake of the Palais Majestic studio at Burbank, entertained with eccentric dancing numbers.

Two performances are scheduled for today, one starting at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the other at 8 o'clock at night. Large crowds followed the parade to the show lot on San Fernando road and spent the day in true circus fashion wandering around, occasionally visiting a side-show or partaking of "red lemonade."

Uses Train to Help Get Arithmetic Sum

AMES, Ia., March 29.—Stanley Whitacre, 12, son of M. M. Whitacre of this city, struck a puzzling mathematical problem while in school here a few days ago. The problem was:

"If a small boy is riding away from home at the rate of 60 miles an hour on a railroad train and has a two hours' start over a radio message traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, how far will he have traveled before the message overtakes him?"

Stanley could not work out this abstruse problem satisfactorily in the school room, so he hurriedly, without notifying his parents, and took passage on a Northwestern train for Chicago to put it to a practical test.

WOL, broadcasting station of the Iowa State College at Ames, assisted the boy in his scientific researches by flashing his description to all points of the compass.

Joseph L. Moss, chief probation officer at Chicago, acted as judge of the test and pronounced in a telegram to Stanley's parents here that the boy was certain he would not have to seek further for the answer to this particular problem.

LEGION WILL ADD NEW MEMBERS AT SHOW APRIL 18TH

Post Plans Entertainment For War Veterans and Invited Guests

With a view of increasing membership in Glendale post, No. 127, American Legion, a gala night will be held on April 18, at which time a program for all former service men is scheduled. An entertainment committee, working under the direction of Commander Joseph Wilson, will arrange a show which will be attractive to both members and their invited guests.

At last night's meeting of the Legion all present agreed to bring a prospective member on the night named. Great interest is manifested in the local post as a result of its success with the recent show for the benefit of disabled comrades and the building fund. L. D. Fish reported that already $1800 net proceeds had been banked and it is hoped that this amount will be materially increased.

Named on Committee
Comrade Fish was elected to the executive committee of the inter-post council of Los Angeles county vice, F. C. Butler, who resigned, to go to Oregon. Walter A. Grayson reported on the vocational training situation and stated that unless the recent order, returning them to compensation pay during the summer vacation, was rescinded, it would be necessary for the American Legion to assist the veterans who are being homes on payment, or who have families dependent on the government allowance. Many are unable to get gainful occupation for a few weeks, it is said.
Angelo Bessolo of Eagle Rock was introduced by Chalmers D. Day and the former announced his intention to the Forty and Eight at Van Nuys tonight. Considerable discussion of the constitution, revised by Attorney Dwight W. Stephenson, resulted in the adoption of the various articles. Building plans also were briefly discussed.

BURBANK COMMITTEE FOR C. OF C. CHOSEN

Budget Drive Nears Finish, Active Campaign to Be Started by Board

With the Chamber of Commerce budget drive now well under way, several new committees have been named and will become active after the drive is over. Most important of these is the executive committee, which will act as a board of directors, comprising: B. A. Cross as chairman; D. S. Preston, Walter Story, W. G. Schmelzel, B. S. Parrish, Freeman Lang, Claude Shettle, C. B. Kahl, Harry Kendig, Walter Lawrence, C. A. Thompson and Jack Williams.

The committee which is to act on the matter of uniformity in opening and closing of the business houses, is: R. M. Berglund, Edward Eckstein and W. F. Holman. This committee will include in its duties the business of learning when Los Angeles and Glendale stores close on holidays, endeavoring to secure uniform action here.
The police patrol committee includes R. J. Rosenberg, C. W. Zink, Ned Palmer, E. Davis, C. W. Denhart and Berney Loper.
E. J. Jackson, C. M. Young and F. L. Welch constitute the grievance committee.

Those to serve on the membership committee are: C. M. Young, C. J. Phelps, J. E. Alexander, Ed. Lee, H. B. Wolfe and C. H. Brannan.
The committee designated for booster day, which is to plan for a big trip around the valley, is made up of Wm. Reimers, E. J. Jackson, W. G. Schmelzel, E. E. Ramp and R. M. Berglund.

Ask Condemnation
The city authorities have been asked by a delegation of residents from Santa Anita avenue, at the San Fernando boulevard junction, to institute condemnation proceedings against the lot in the street, on which Mr. Cowen is erecting a structure.

Mr. Cowen has agreed to build on the adjoining lot if the delegation of protestors will buy it for him. This they have not agreed to do. They have agreed, however, to condemn the property probably include adjacent property and an assessment district will be created to care for the expense of the proceeding.

The report of Building Inspector Farley that the John Muir school is safe sets at rest certain persistent rumors that it was "a fire-trap" and "likely to collapse." These rumors have repeatedly been denied by those who knew of the soundness of construction employed when the building was put up. The report stated that the walls are secure, the floors solid and the building, generally, well built. It was recommended that the cornice might be removed and replaced with lath and plaster; and while not especially needed, some bracing might be done in the attic, to be doubly safe.

Drama Section of Tuesday Club to Present Comedy

The annual spring production of the drama department of the Tuesday Afternoon club is always keenly anticipated by club members and friends, and much interest centers about this year's play, Bernard Shaw's four-act comedy ("You Never Can Tell," to be given Friday and Saturday nights, April 4 and 5, at the clubhouse.

Mrs. Max Green, curator of the department, announces that Granville Sturges, who so recently directed "Mice and Men," is coaching the cast and those who saw his first production in Glendale, will be interested in the coming play.
Among the talented people who will appear in the cast will be Harold Brewster, dramatic instructor at the Glendale Union High school.

This advertising, which has been financed by the contributions of various Southern California counties and leading business men, has poured back into the territory concerned a golden flood of summer visitors, totaling more than 200,000 in the past two years, above the numbers in the years just previous.
These summer visitors, according to Secretary Milham of the All-Year club, added $20,000,000 to the annual sum spent here by tourists before the drive was undertaken, and established new summer records in camp clearings, department store and general merchandising business—to such a decided degree that business men, railroads and travel authorities in general have been outspoken in their praise of the impetus given to summer touring in Southern California by the advertising program of the All-Year club.

merce of the United States. Chambers of Commerce supporting the Better Home's demonstrations were more numerous in 1923 than in 1922, and this appeal is made to you in hope that you will actively co-operate in the 1924 campaign. Those participating found that both industry and commerce were benefited by the campaign, and that it raised the general standard of citizenship. It served to unite men and women and the commercial and civic forces in common purposes and because of its popular appeal gained support for the organizations sponsoring it.

Demonstrations Urged
"May 11-18 has been designated as Better Home week for 1924. We trust that you will apply your energies in securing a demonstration for your community by volunteering to act as secretary of the committee, and by co-operating with the committee wherever it may need your help. We hope also that you will use your influence whenever called upon, to keep the movement free from domination by special interests. The emphasis should not be on houses or furnishings or appliances, important though these may be, but on the improvement of the quality of the home. For this is essentially a civic movement."

"If you do this, the chairman will feel encouraged in accepting, and you will help to assure the success of the demonstration."
"In lending your support to this movement, we confidently believe that you will find it one of the most helpful projects your organization has undertaken."

an influx of tourists to Southern California can be expected, this summer, as this section of the state has never before been seen in an inundation of prosperity comprising countless thousands of tourists already sold on the Southland, bringing with them money to spend, money with which to buy homes, money with which to make investments, engage in business or industry, erect homes, apartments, store and office buildings or in other ways become themselves associated in the up-building of Southern California.

License Fees Total $110,703 in January

month, there were 21,066 real estate licenses granted in California, and for the year the total was over 65,000.

Surplus for Enforcement
The total license for 1924 will be larger than for the last year, and the surplus of revenues from the issuing of the licenses will again be large. Therefore, the realty boards and the California Real Estate association and its officers and state legislative committee are endeavoring to secure the surplus revenues for the more effective administration of the real estate license law, and for the dissemination of information about California real estate. To secure this money for the purposes desired it will be necessary to have a legislative appropriation, as the money has been placed in the general fund of the state. Since the California real estate license act went into effect July 27, 1919, more than $225,000 has been paid into the state general fund from the sale of real estate licenses.

Commissioner Kelsor announced at recent meetings that he was holding brokers strictly to their obligations under the law; that many licenses were being investigated, withheld or revoked because brokers had not complied with the act. The sign provision is being rigorously enforced. Every broker must display the words: "Licensed Real Estate Broker."

Manufacturers Asked to Fill Out Census

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—In the hope of placing Southern California among the leading districts of the nation as an industrial community, A. G. Arnoll, manager of the industrial bureau of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, has issued an appeal to the manufacturers to fill out their census returns.

Mr. Arnoll's exhortation was the result of a warning sent out by the director of the industrial census for 1923 in the Department of Commerce at Washington that only 50 per cent of the manufacturers had filled out their schedules.

The census director pointed out that if the reports were filled out immediately it would enable the bureau to publish the statistical data at a much earlier period than usual, as well as result in a saving by eliminating the cost of hiring special agents who have usually been employed to collect the reports.

TUJUNGA INCREASE STOCK IN TUJUNGA BANK

Growth of Business Forces Directors to Enlarge Working Capital

Stockholders of the Tujunga Valley Bank met Thursday afternoon and voted an increase in the capital stock of the bank from $25,000 to $100,000. As soon as official authorization is received from the controller of banks the full amount of the stock will be issued, according to a statement made by A. Adams, cashier.

The business of the Tujunga bank has increased so rapidly since the opening less than two years ago that several additions to the clerical staff have been necessary, particularly in the escrow department. The original stock issue of $25,000 was considered ample at the time to care for the business for a considerable period, but unforeseen prosperity of greater magnitude than the stockholders at first anticipated has made necessary the increase just voted.

Is Named Cashier
A. F. Ullrich has succeeded Robert D. Walker as assistant cashier, the latter having resigned to accept a position with the Security Trust and Savings Bank, Pasadena branch. Mr. Ullrich was formerly assistant manager of the Huntington Park branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank and prior to that time manager of the Catalina branch for the same institution. He was associated with A. Adams, cashier of the Tujunga Valley Bank, at the Huntington Park branch of the Pacific Southwest.

Mr. Walker was an active factor in the development of the local bank and also an active member of the American Legion, Post 250. The position he has accepted in Pasadena is an advancement in his profession and his friends, while sorry to lose him from the community, are congratulating him on the promotion.

Sold Play Tickets
Displaying team work and salesmanship, the Tujunga Kiwanis club sold the original 300 Mission Play tickets given them by Mr. McGroarty for distribution for Verdugo Hills night, March 26, and later took 100 additional tickets, making a total of 400. While the rains of Wednesday prevented some from attending the annual reception of the neighbors and friends of the author of the play, it was one of the finest of these events, which have come to be anticipated by the residents of the Verdugo hills. Every year in the spring Mr. McGroarty designates one evening for the exclusive entertainment of the hill tribes among whom he lives and distributes tickets to supply the demand at less than half price. These 'home' nights have become very popular and share an equal place in the entertainment scheme in the hills with the annual vaudeville shows given by members of the Mission play cast at the Garden of the Moon, Tujunga.

Next Tuesday night, April 1, there will be a dance at the Garden of the Moon, given by the Tujunga Parent-Teacher Association, in celebration of April Fool day. Proceeds of the dance will go to the chair fund of the school auditorium.

Hold Kids' Party
The J. O. C. class of the Tujunga Community church recently enjoyed a kids' party at the home of Mrs. E. B. Daly. All the guests attended dressed as small children and entertained with their first speaking 'pieces' or songs. Refreshments were served a la country school style, wrapped in newspapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Six of North Stevens Way were recently surprised by the Lingerlonger dancing club of Los Angeles, about forty members motoring out to congratulate Mr. Six on the anniversary of his birthday. Dancing and games were enjoyed and refreshments were served.

MOTHERS MEET
The annual meeting of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations will be held during the week of May 5, at St. Paul, Minn. The president of the organization, Mrs. Augustus Reeve, of Philadelphia, has arranged a program covering all phases of child welfare.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, March 29.—The servant problem is a very delicate subject in England, and perhaps that is why Fanny Hurst's new novel, "Lummox," has been banned by one of the largest circulating libraries in London.

"Lummox" shows the seamy side of servant life and, according to the English version, is a little too sympathetic toward domestics. English householders are not inclined to glorify their servants, nor are they anxious that the servants shall pity themselves. Any literary work that is too sympathetic toward the domestic is bound to be unpopular in England.

It is probably to spare the feelings of the employers that the banning of "Lummox" has been resorted to by the circulating library.

"Lummox" was very well reviewed by the English press, and with a great deal of sympathy. Immediately after its reviews had attracted attention announcement was made of its banning. The publishers have made advertising capital out of the ban, and there is little doubt but that "Lummox" will become a best-seller among the thousands of servants of England.

One of the most unusual books published in England in many a day has just made its appearance. It is "The Chinese Confessions of C. W. Mason."

Charles Welsh Mason, who has lived in America, and who confesses to unpleasant experiences with an American wife, opens his memoirs with the announcement that he has been a convict and an outcast, and presents his story as a psychological study.

Thirty years ago, when a mere youth, Mason was a junior assistant in the Chinese customs service. He became involved in the plots of a Chinese secret society and gave birth to an ambition to become emperor of the world. He worked upon the theory that he might out-Napoleon Napoleon and planned to start upon his world conquest by becoming King of China. With this idea in his mind Mason personally directed the fomentation of a Chinese rebellion and personally financed it. Unfortunately for Mason the rebellion was no more than a fiasco, and he was arrested by his own countrymen at Shanghai, and his first shipment of arms was seized before he had been able to make a single attack.

Mason's confessions are well told and do not err on the side of reticence. In fact, the story is almost brutally frank, and the author spares neither himself nor his comrades, and paints some amazingly outspoken pictures of the laxity of life in the foreign colony in China.

One of the most interesting of the recent crop of English first novels is John Innes' "Till A' the Seas Gang Dry."

Despite the title this is not a bootlegging novel, but is instead the story of a pair of Scotch lads who left their native heath and came to London to join "the group of Scotchmen who run England."

Innes has written his tale in his native Scotch dialect, and it is full of the dry humor of the Scots. He is no respecter of persons and even takes occasion to have a little fun with Sir James Barrie. He tells of a visit to Thrums, where he questioned one of the natives on their attitude toward the distinguished townsman, Barrie.

"James Bawrie's fair mair thot o' oot o' Thrums than een Thrums," said an old cab-driver.

HIGHEST SUSPENSION BRIDGE

Built Across Snake River In Idaho

HANSEN BRIDGE

The accompanying picture shows the magnificent Hansen suspension bridge, near Hansen, Southern Idaho, declared to be the highest suspension bridge in the world. Built across the Snake River canyon at a cost of $100,000, it is 345 feet above the water, flowing like a tiny thread far below; its length is 688 feet. It was recently dedicated to the fallen soldiers of the World War.

The flooring is of wood, as steel would be too heavy. Every year or so the planks will have to be replaced by new ones. The travel on the bridge is quite heavy. Giant cables span the canyon at this point, these being pronounced entirely adequate to supporting the structure.

Timely Views

W. P. G. HARDING

An American citizen is to rule Hungary with a power as great as the Hapsburgs enjoyed in the heyday of that country. He is W. P. G. Harding, former governor of the federal reserve board, who has accepted the post of financial director of Hungary under the auspices of the League of Nations.

Like the league financial director in Austria, Dr. Zimmerman, Dutch burgmaster, who started that nation on the way back to normalcy, Harding in Hungary will control the creation of an independent bank of issue and currency inflation and have supervision over expenditures, revenues and many other details.

Hungarian finances have been chaotic since the war and Hungary finally appealed, like Austria, to the League of Nations for assistance to get her out of the mud. Negotiations are practically complete for a loan of $50,000,000 to be guaranteed by France, Britain and probably Italy, and Harding will be charged with the execution of the terms of the indenture under which the big loan will be floated.

To this task Harding brings ripe experience. As governor of the federal reserve board he was chiefly instrumental in the policy of increasing discount rates to a point where the great inflation of 1919 and 1920 was checked.

He supervised the various steps in the deflation which followed in the latter part of 1920 and in 1921. When his term of office expired in 1922, though a Democrat, he was seriously considered for renomination and only withdrew from the race when it became apparent that his nomination would not obtain sanction of the Senate.

Upon his withdrawal he was appointed governor of the Federal Reserve Bank in Boston early in 1923.

Mr. Harding was born in Greene county, Alabama, on May 5, 1864.

The automobile turned a corner, and the dog rushed out and entered into combat with it. The driver did his best to dodge, but was unsuccessful, and, being a decent sort, got out of the car and carried the remains of the unfortunate beast into his owner's garden. The latter, a fiery woman, raged at him as if he had committed a deliberate murder.

When he could manage to get a word in he tried to pacify her. "I am very sorry, madam, I assure you," he said, "and I shall be happy to replace your dog. The woman glared at him. "You flatter yourself," she said.

"What are you doing?" growled the Bear. "I smell something very good!" and he looked hungrily at the bunny's ears.

"I am baking pancakes. Will you have one?" asked Uncle Wiggily, most politely.

"Try this one!" invited Uncle Wiggily, flapping the first griddle cake into the air off toward one corner of the kitchen. The bear ran after the cake and caught it.

"Another!" he growled, as he gobbled it down.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PANCAKES

Uncle Wiggily hopped out of bed, but out of the window he didn't pop his head, for he feared his pink, twinkling nose might freeze. However, the rabbit gentleman, in his hollow stump bungalow, dressed very quickly.

"For I want to get downstairs as soon as I can," he said to himself, "and eat some of Nurse Jane's pancakes with maple syrup."

Mr. Longears was very fond of the griddle cakes, or flapjacks, which his muskrat lady housekeeper made for him on cold, wintry mornings.

"And I am especially hungry this morning," he whistled a jolly tune and finished dressing. Then he slid down the banister rail, for he was in a hurry to eat those wonderful pancakes he thought Nurse Jane would soon be baking.

But when the rabbit gentleman reached the kitchen Nurse Jane wasn't there. Nor was the fire cheerfully blazing, nor were there any signs of pancakes.

"Something must be the matter!" thought Mr. Longears. "I wonder why Nurse Jane isn't down to get my breakfast?"

Just then a voice called from upstairs: "Is that you, Wiggy?"

"Oh, such a weak, sad voice as it was!"

"Yes, Nurse Jane, it is I," answered the bunny. "Is anything the matter? Your voice sounds ill."

"Yes, I have a dreadful headache," was the answer. "I fear I can not get down to bake your pancakes this morning. If you would telephone over to Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, or Aunt Lettie, the lady goat, one of them would run in and get your breakfast."

"Nonsense!" laughed the bunny gentleman. "I won't trouble them. I'll get my own breakfast, pancakes and all. But first I shall make you a cup of coffee for your headache."

"Do you think you can bake your cakes?" asked Nurse Jane, weakly.

"Oh, surely!" said the rabbit. "But first I'll make your coffee." So he did that, and the hot, fragrant coffee made Nurse Jane feel a little better.

"You are very kind, Uncle Wiggily," she said.

"I'll bring you some cakes after I bake them," he offered.

"Thank you, but if you bake some for yourself you will be doing very well," spoke the muskrat lady, with a smile.

"You shall see," chuckled Mr. Longears. He mixed up the flour batter for his pancakes in a bowl, stirring in the milk and water.

On the stove he placed the iron griddle to get hot, and he found a piece of bacon which Mr. Twistytail, the pig gentleman, had given him, and with this Uncle Wiggily greased the griddle so the pancakes wouldn't stick fast and burn.

Then, having seen to it that his plate, knife and fork were ready, and placing the jar of maple syrup where he could reach it, Uncle Wiggily poured on the hot griddle a spoonful of the pancake batter.

The batter hissed on the hot griddle and then, in the top, little holes began to form, like dimples in baby's cheeks, coming and going.

Uncle Wiggily watched the baking pancake as he had seen Nurse Jane do, and when there were enough holes in the top side, he flopped the cake over, to cook the other side.

"Flapjacks," he laughed, as he turned the cake. It was baking nicely and brown on the other side, when all of a sudden, in through the door stalked the Bushy Bear! The rabbit had opened the door to take in the milk and had forgotten to lock it.

"What are you doing?" growled the Bear. "I smell something very good!" and he looked hungrily at the bunny's ears.

"I am baking pancakes. Will you have one?" asked Uncle Wiggily, most politely.

"Try this one!" invited Uncle Wiggily, flapping the first griddle cake into the air off toward one corner of the kitchen. The bear ran after the cake and caught it.

"Another!" he growled, as he gobbled it down.

What are you doing? growled the Bear.

Poems That Live

"I AM READY"

Earth, with its dark and dreadful hills,

Recedes, and fades away;

Lift up your heads, ye heavenly hills;

Ye gates of death, give way!

My soul is full of whispered song,

My blindness is my sight;

The shadows that I feared so long

Are all alive with light.

The while my pulses faintly beat,

My faith doth so abound,

I feel grow firm beneath my feet

The green immortal ground.

That faith to me a courage gives

Low as the grave, to go;

I know that my Redeemer lives;

That I shall live, I know.

The palace walls I almost see,

Where dwells my Lord and King;

O grave, where is thy victory!

O death, where is thy sting!

—Alice Cary.

A few years ago, Mr. Lawson was considered a financial wizard, declares Judge. His special "coppers" brought him such prosperity that he was called King Copper.

One June morning his magnificent steam yacht, Dreamland, lay anchored in Hull Harbor. Her owner was pacing the deck lazily when a party of boys and girls out for a sail in a small fishing boat suddenly ran against his superb craft. One of the young women, feeling herself in a bathing suit quite incognito, shouted through a megaphone: "Hello, Tom! How's copper?"

"First rate! How's brass?" was the quick retort.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. H.: You say your daughter of 19, who works in a factory, is very anemic and her menstruation periods have stopped. Often, in conditions of anemia the menstrual period will stop, nature seeming to realize that there is no blood to be spared. Your daughter certainly must be taken out of the factory and have a complete rest. Have her warmly dressed and out of doors in the sunshine as much as possible, and on a sleeping porch at night, if possible. If not, be very sure that the room is properly ventilated.

She should be under the care of a physician. Perhaps he will give her by hypodermic injections. Her diet should be very carefully selected. The foods that are high in iron should be stressed. They are: Vegetables—spinach, string beans, cabbage, Brussels sprouts, celery, tomatoes, carrots, peas, potatoes; animal foods—lean meats (fish is not high in iron) and egg yolks (egg yolks have a very high percentage); cereals—whole wheat and oatmeal; nuts—almonds, peanuts and walnuts; fruits—fresh fruits, while they do not contain a high per cent of iron, have it in a valuable form; dried fruits—dates, figs, prunes and raisins—are relatively high.

She should have plenty of milk for its calcium and complete protein, and special attention should be given to her bowels, so that there is a complete evacuation once or twice a day. If the inclination of liberal amounts of vegetables and fruits do not accomplish this, then she should have agar or mineral oil or bran added to her diet.

K.: Psoriasis is one of the most difficult of the skin diseases to cure permanently. The cause of the disease is not fully known. Some skin specialists believe it is due to infection, others that it is inherited. Others believe that it is a disturbance of the nervous system. Digestive disorders will seem to aggravate or provoke the disease and some of those who have psoriasis are rheumatic or gouty. The patches of psoriasis appear mostly upon the covered parts, and daily exposure to the sun's rays is one of the measures advised for treatment.

If a subject of psoriasis is underweight, then the diet should

CHARMING MARY SEEKS HUSBAND

Operatic Star Will Wed If Mate Is Found

Mary Garden on and off the operatic stage. Mary Garden wants to get married. For—well, that would be talking—years Mary has struggled along without a partner in wedlock. Now she thinks the stars are propitious for her marriage and she is "looking around." The famous opera star is known to have looked with favor on William S. Hart, the two-gun man of the movies, but Bill unluckily happens to be married at this writing. Who'll marry Mary?

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

DULL EXISTENCE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young married woman. Before I was married I taught school and had my own money and a good time. We have a little boy going on three years of age. My husband's attitude is very distant. He is growing worse every day. He is gone all day and prefers taking lunch to coming home. In the evening he either reads the sporting news, or reads a book of snappy stories, or goes to sleep. About 8 o'clock every night he tells me I had better take the boy and go to bed. Our bedrooms are off upstairs and as babe is afraid and he takes a nap, I generally go to bed when he does.

I keep my house clean and also my baby and myself. However, I believe I am a little old-fashioned every modern girl he sees. I am not the "old maid" type of woman by any means.

Once I had my hair bobbed and let it grow. Would you advise me to have it trimmed again and dress as a modern girl? Of course, my boy is old enough for me to devote more time to myself. We are in a strange town and I don't know many people.

LONGER MOTHER.

If your husband liked your hair bobbed, I would advise you to have it cut again. Since he likes to see women keep up with the styles, it would certainly pay you to give more thought to your appearance and make an effort to please him. Perhaps you have failed as so many mothers do. Often a woman forgets to love her husband when a baby comes, and in her devotion to her child her husband has to learn to do for himself and get along without her companionship. It is most unfortunate that your little boy is afraid to go to bed alone. Perhaps you can talk him out of his fear or reward him for his courage if he does as you tell him and goes to sleep without having you with him. Just a light in the room might help. Or as an extremity you might have to lie down until he goes to sleep. Many people would tell you not to humor your child, but fear is such a terrible thing that I do not think you ought to discipline him by making him stay alone when he is filled with horror. Try in every way, however, to help him to overcome his fear. Take more interest in your husband and talk to him about the things he enjoys. Also compliment him when you can and let him know if he does things that please you.

BASHFUL BRUNETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am sort of bashful or backward and recognize very few of my schoolmates, especially the boys. It seems foolish of me to go on not recognizing them, but how should I go about it? There is a certain boy whom I am sure I hurt in this way. He passed me several times a day at work, but he worked in the office and I in the same way. Now can I regain his friendship? I am sorry for what I did. When I meet any of the others, how should I recognize them?

FOOLISH BRUNETTE.

When you meet people you know, smile and say, "How do you do." Force yourself to do this even if you are shy and at first it seems difficult. I don't know of anything you can do in regard to the young man you are offended. It would be quite impossible to speak when he pretends not to see you. Simply be ready for an opportunity when he does show recognition and then speak as if nothing happened.

He Is Shy

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am very lonesome at times and very seldom have a good time. I have quite a few friends and a good position, but am a bit shy with the girls. I would like to find a girl to suit me, but I am afraid. What would you advise? CALIFORNIA.

There is only one way out of your difficulty and that is to conquer your shyness and fear. You will find that after all it is not so hard to invite a girl to go somewhere. When a girl is

Beauty Chats

SWIMMING FOR BEAUTY

Swimming, I believe, is the best all-round exercise for the development of beauty. It takes off superfluous fat, it converts flabby flesh into strong muscle, it develops the chest, shoulders, arms and the bust, gives a flat abdomen and slender hips and legs as graceful in shape as a professional dancer's. It gives not only beauty of outline, it gives also grace of movement, and if a woman knows that she is both graceful and beautiful what else can she want to lend her self-confidence?

Knowing what it will do for you, you should, if you are an earnest beauty seeker, be fired at once with the desire to go out and learn to swim. Women dislike exercise, the more they need it the more they dislike it, for the weaker the muscles become the more disinclined they are to do any work. You may have to force yourself to learn, but the more expert you become the more pleasure it will be. Almost everyone is within reach of some bathing place in the summer, and with the rapid spread of clubs and Y. W. C. A.'s and such organizations, hundreds of thousands are within reach of a winter indoor swimming tank.

If you are completely off the beaten track so you have no possibility of getting this splendid exercise you can at least get the motion by going through the various swimming strokes while you stand upright, first with the arms and then with the legs. You have not the tonic of the cold water against the skin while you are exercising but you can follow the exercise with a cool bath. If you have been vigorous enough your skin will be hot and you will have a splendid reaction from the plunge into cool water. This not only develops the body but clears the complexion by opening and cleansing the pores of the skin. Always follow a real or pretended swim by a thorough rub down with a coarse towel.

Gloria:—Peroxide and ammonia will not make hair white, it is likely to make it a pale straw shade. This mixture sometimes weakens the superfluous hair, so it becomes finer and without color, and there have been cases where the hair ceased to grow. I hope you are one of those fortunate ones who get rid of this trouble so easily, but it does not happen in all cases.

Cupid:—Deep breathing, a daily full bath, a set of exercises that keep the whole body in health, a balanced diet, and no overeating will positively produce a healthy and resultant attractive complexion. You can attain it as well as others, if you learn to take the proper care of your health, as herewith suggested.

Molly O.:—If a child of 14 is in good health it is of no consequence if the weight is somewhat below the usual amount.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

The "Woman Citizen" reports the names of seven women to date who have congressional aspirations.

They are: Mrs. Izzetta Jewel Brown, of West Virginia; Miss Nellie Cline who has twice been a legislator in Kansas on the Democratic ticket; Mrs. Helen L. Grenfel, of Denver, Democrat; Mrs. Manly Fosseen, Republican, Minnesota, who covets Magnus Johnson's senate seat; Mrs. Benjamin F. Perry, of Lexington, Kentucky, also a senate candidate; Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, of Chicago, Ill., who finished an unexpired term as representative-at-large; and Miss Julia Landers, Democrat, Indianapolis.

lonesome, very often she cannot help it, but with a young man it is different. All he needs to do is to invite a girl of his acquaintance to go somewhere. Don't wait for a girl who absolutely suits you, because you will be surprised what good times you can have with girl friends even if you have not found a sweetheart. Sometimes I think a man expects a girl to be too perfect, while he never stops to consider whether or not he is as perfect as the girl he demands.

ETHEL M: The idea that an opal brings bad luck is only superstition.

A LOVE PROBLEM

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl 16 years old. I am in love with a boy 22 years old. I have some with this boy eleven months and he says he loves me. He is away from this town working but he has asked me to marry him when he comes home. My mother is dead. She died when I was only four years old. My life at home is very unpleasant. Do you think this boy really loves me? Would you advise me to marry him? He has gone with only one other girl since I started going with him and with her only twice.

I write to this boy often, but he doesn't answer all of my letters. He is staying with a boy friend of his who is married and knows me. Do you suppose this friend reads the letters or that my friend doesn't want to answer them? He says that he is always glad to hear from me.

SWETHEART.

The boy loves you or he would not want to marry you. I think, however, that you are too young to do so for at least two years. I doubt if your letters are read by the other boy. Probably your fiancé does not enjoy writing letters sufficiently to keep up his end of the correspondence. I would not advise you to write to him any oftener than he writes to you.

WITH WOMEN OF TODAY

Dr. Marian Phillips is the chief woman officer of England's labor party. Her job is to organize and marshal the women members of the organization. She is credited with playing a major part in the election of Ramsay MacDonald, the new labor premier.

Dr. Phillips was born in Melbourne, Australia, in 1881. She was educated in the university there and at the London School of Economics where she took her degree of doctor of science.

"We were bounding along," said a recent traveler on a local South African single-line railway, "at the rate of about seven miles an hour, and the whole train was shaking terribly. I expected every moment to see my bones protruding through my skin. Passengers were rolling from one end of the car to the other. I held on firmly to the arms of the seat. Presently we settled down a bit quieter; at least I could keep my hat on and my teeth didn't chatter."

"There was a quiet-looking man opposite me. I looked up with a ghastly smile, wishing to appear cheerful, and said:

"We are going a bit smoother, I see."

"Yes," he said, "we're off the track now!"

"Now that I keep my house dust-free all the year 'round with a vacuum cleaner, need I do the old-fashioned 'Spring Housecleaning'?" writes a Bride Reader. The vacuum-cleaned house does make it unnecessary to do the strenuous kind of annual housecleaning our grandmothers did; but, for the sake of sanitation, every woman of today likes to move her furniture and draperies out into the sunshine and air at least once a year.

The vacuum-cleaned house does make time carpet-beating unnecessary. And the vacuum cleaner attachments for removing dust from upholstery, draperies, etc., enable us to clean our hangings and furniture right in the house. But no machine can ever rival Nature's sun and air in sweetening our possessions and ridding them of any germs that they may possibly harbor.

Assuming, then, that we have kept the house clean all year, with the vacuum cleaner, our spring sunning and airing is best conducted as follows:

Dust and wash all ornaments of china, brass and other materials which do not require sunning, and put them away, temporarily, in a clean closet. Take all small cloth objects, such as couch pillows, table runners, silk lampshades, etc., out into the open air, but take care that a strong sun does not fade them. Vacuum-clean small rugs and place them in the sunshine for a full day. Also carry out the movable pieces of furniture; the larger and heavier furniture cannot, of course, be taken out, but should, at least, be pushed close to a sunny window. The room is now free of all save the larger rug (if there is one). After cleaning this with the vacuum, remove it, too, to porch or back yard for a thorough sunning.

The housekeeper now has a chance to brush over the ceilings with a broom which is covered with a flannel bag (or, better yet, with a white wool mop) and rub down the walls. The wood of the board and window trim should be gone over with water or cleaning oils and polishes, after the windows have been washed. This is the time, too, to treat the floor if it needs it.

Start at the top of the house and clean downward, taking only one room a day—and allowing several days between rooms, if possible. We housekeepers of today realize that our health is the first consideration—indeed, that our very housekeeping efficiency depends on it—and we refuse to let the Spring Housecleaning wear us out, as our ancestors did.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use your full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor

Declare Hawaii Good Place for Plane Flying

HONOLULU, March 29.—There is no place in the world better suited to the flying of airplanes than Hawaii, Brigadier-General William Mitchell, Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service, told a group of Honolulu business men at the completion of his recent inspection tour, which included nearly all the islands of the group.

The statement caused old-timers to recall that Tom Gunn, Chinese aviator, and one or two other airmen of twelve or fourteen years ago, who tried flying over the island of Oahu with but little success, had asserted that flying conditions here would never permit of anything but short hops because of the "air pockets" that hung over the island. The incident is illustrative of the advance that has been effected in aviation since that time. To the outside islands from this island are almost daily occurrences now with the army and navy.

General Mitchell predicted that in the days to come Hawaii will be no more than twenty-one hours from the mainland and not more than thirty-three hours from Yokohama. The islands, which are now known as the "Crossroads of the Pacific," will then take on a new appellation, he said; they will be known as the "Crossroads of the Air."

OCCULT SCIENCE BOARD IS CHOSEN

Church Officials to Direct Organization's Work in Coming Year

The Occult Science of Christ church, holding services at 113 South Orange street on Sunday evenings, elected its first board of directors at the home of Rev. Moore, the presiding pastor of the church, on Thursday, March 20. Up until the time of this election the activities of the church had been directed and supervised by Rev. and Mrs. Moore, but from now on the activities and policies of the organization will be directed and determined by the members of the recently elected board, who consist of Mrs. Mabel Moore, chairman; Guy B. Moore, secretary; Mrs. Hazel D. Phillips, treasurer, and Mrs. E. Bemrose, assistant treasurer and trustee. This board of directors is to serve for one year from the date of its election.

The Occult Science of Christ church, it is declared, has been a definitely helpful and constructive factor in the religious life of Glendale since its advent here in November of last year. The work of the church is along non-sectarian lines; its speakers, teachers and message-bearers seek truth in the scriptures of all nations and seek to share with others the results of their study. One feature of the church's services which is quite a unique one is the healing service, in which all present at the service are invited to receive a treatment and magnetic.

"One of the church's plans for the immediate future is the formation of a children's lyceum, or Sunday school, in which its teachings are presented to boys and girls ranging in age from 6 to 16, in a form suitable to the child mind and to the youthful mind. It is the intention of the leaders of the church in this way to instruct the young in the principles of universal brotherhood, tolerance and respect for the religious convictions of all, the reality of life after death, and other cardinal tenets of the church. They feel that a youth who goes out into the world with a knowledge of these truths as one of his possessions is prepared in a very real and definite way for the trials and difficulties of life, and that he is also prepared to make an example of his life that will serve to uplift and purify all with whom he comes in touch.

It is in this way that the church hopes to carry forth its work in Glendale during the ensuing year and the principal hope and aspiration of its leaders and members is that they will be able to serve the people of this city fully and lastingly in every way within their power during the year of accomplishment that lies before them.

SHOW CHICK FILM

At the recent Country Life Conference held in St. Louis, a moving picture film was shown of a farm boy and his prize flock of chickens. The birds were fine because the boy had a scientific knowledge of chicken culture and had applied his knowledge to the care of his flock. But the boy was a mouth breather and showed further effects of malnutrition. The chickens were better cared for than the boy.

URGES VOTERS TO REGISTER TODAY

One Hundred Per Cent Vote
Is Sought in County for This Year

"At the last general election, 181,144 in Los Angeles county alone registered and entitled to vote did not care who represented California in the United States Congress, who governed the state, who helped to make the laws, who supervised the business of the county, nor what happened to important measures which, under the initiative and referendum, were before the people," said Edward Owen, secretary of the 100 Per Cent Register and Vote League. "There were 531,387 persons registered in the state who did not take the trouble to vote."

At the last presidential election only 49 per cent of the voting population throughout the nation voted, he added.

"The condition in Los Angeles county today is little better," he said. "A conservative estimate from accurate figures shows that Los Angeles county has a voting population of approximately 725,000 people—up to date 419,917 have registered."

"The growth of Southern California has been marvelous. It is the subject of comment throughout the length and breadth of the nation. However, the proportionate growth in influence commensurate with the great growth in numbers will not be felt unless the true status is expressed by the registration and vote cast at the polls."

"For the purpose of increasing the total registration and vote cast at all elections to as nearly 100 per cent as possible, there has been formed the 100 Per Cent Register and Vote League, which has the endorsement of the mayor, the city and county superintendents of schools, representative heads of men and women's clubs, educational, civic and religious organizations, also the ministers of the different denominations, in Los Angeles and other cities."

"There are two important messages to be gotten over. One is that unless the voter has registered since January 1, 1924, he cannot vote; the other, that unless he states his political affiliation he cannot vote at the presidential primaries. Exactly 53,598 have declined to state party affiliation up to the present time."

Registration for presidential primary closes Saturday, April 5, 1924.

Order Field Deputies To Check Delinquents

Instructions assigning the entire available field force of the southern California internal revenue district to an intensive drive for the service of warrants for delinquent taxpayers, were received from Washington by Collector Rex B. Goodcell today.

Under the order the drive is to begin April 1 and run until May 1. Approximately 10,000 warrants will be served. The delinquent revenue to be collected covers every class of taxes.

Field deputies were yesterday instructed by Collector Goodcell to make courtesy the watchword in serving distraint warrants, and to see that the warrants contain all information available in order that the deputy will be able to make full explanation to the taxpayer as to the specific character of the tax covered by the warrant.

Every section of southern California will be combed by the six field deputies who will serve the warrants.
